Area Congressmen Discuss Watergate, Impeachment Mail

BY LYNN MULVANEY

WASHINGTON, D.C.

President Nixon's face-to-face breakfast meetings last week with members of the House and Senate may have helped somewhat to repair his tattered image as a result of the Watergate scandal.

Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) said he came away feeling that "the President was trying harder."

Rep. Howard W. Robison (R-27th Dist.) felt that if the President can restore any of his credibility, "this is the best way to do it rather than reading prepared scripts on television."

And, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th Dist.) said the meetings were "just the beginning . . . that Nixon is determined to use every means possible to get what he considers the true story before the American people. I welcome the 180-degree turnabout. It was long overdue," Fish said.

All three of Ulster County's congressmen said their mail has been heavy in favor of impeachment but that it is tapering off.

Robison, who sat two seats from the President at Friday's breakfast meeting, read a letter to Nixon from a Woodstock Republican, in which it was stated that the question no longer is whether the President knew of crimes committed or the following coverup attempt but that he allowed his highest subordinates to undermine the power and authority of the presidency. This not knowing is exactly what constitutes the high crimes and misdemeanors which embrace grounds for impeachment.

President Nixon responded saying that the 1972 election was the first one in which he was involved in which he did not become personally involved nor was he aware of campaign financing and direction. He said that in the past he had been criticized for trying to take too much of a part in such details.

Special

He said he accepted the full responsibility for errors of omission or commission that were made in his name and would accept the condemnation of the Woodstock Republican and . . . do better in the future.

Gilman said he found the President to be fully determined to bring the full truth of the Watergate case before the public and he was impressed with his "sincerity, his openness and obvious determination to get the truth."

Gilman quoted the President as saying "It is not important how I survive but what is important is whether the nation is going to survive."

Fish agreed that Nixon answered with candor and frankness, the wide range of questions put to him. He said his impression was that the President is now "fully aware of the difficult position he is in over the breakdown in his credibility and whatever may have been true in the past about his being shielded, is certainly not true today."

Regarding Nixon's posture, Robison commented that he was "in full control of himself, he looked good and that he had accepted his current problems in an unemotional attitude . . . almost as though he were resigned to them at last and anxious, as he explained in some detail, about how he was going to take his case to the public . . ."

Robison said Nixon contended that he was also anxious to get the tapes out, that they will support his position and that the only problem concerning them now is the fact that they involve persons currently involved in court cases and the courts must clear the release of the tapes.

Regarding resignation or impeachment of the President, Fish said merely that his mail has been running heavily against the President but that he is now getting an increasing number of letters in favor of Nixon.

Gilman thinks the "decision to have the House Judiciary Committee start the investigation was a proper response to the resolution seeking impeachment. Such an inquiry will provide the House with the facts and the perspective needed to make an intelligent decision," he suggested.

Sniper Kills Policeman In Newburgh Gun Battle

By JON POWERS

NEWBURGH

A Newburgh city patrolman—with a wife, two children and just two years on the force—was shot and killed Sunday night during an hour-long gun battle with a lone sniper who held 12 policemen at bay until he was finally captured.

The dead police officer was identified as 28-year-old William Robinson. He was shot once in the head.

The gunman was identified as 23-year-old Wilfredo Rivera of 80 Benkard Street, Newburgh. The siege took place outside his two-story brick home in a quiet residential neighborhood in Newburgh.

The gun battle, according to police reports, began at about 11 p. m. Sunday. Ironically, the slain police officer was part of a backup team called to the scene after the shooting began. The first police units were sent to the Benkard Street address to investigate reports of a family quarrel. When they left their car to approach the house, said authorities, Rivera began firing from a second floor window.

The officers immediately ducked for cover and radioed for help. Most of the police officers working the 4 p. m. to midnight shift responded to the call.

Robinson's unit was one of the first to reach the scene. A local newspaper reporter, who was an eyewitness to the hour-long siege, said Robinson was crouched behind a patrol car parked in front of the house when he was felled by the single rifle bullet.

Robinson's body lay sprawled in the street for more than 10 minutes, according to the eyewitness. Rivera, still shooting from inside the house, kept police pinned down and prevented ambulance attendants and rescue teams from reaching the fallen officer. Robinson was eventually pulled from the street and rushed to St. Luke's Hospital. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

According to police reports, more than a dozen patrolmen surrounded the house and fired small arms and shotgun rounds into the home. Rivera sporadically returned their fire with a 30.06 hunting rifle.

Shortly before midnight, police lobbed several canisters of tear gas through the windows of the house. Gasping for breath, Rivera stumbled out of the front door, where he was quickly wrestled to the ground by police.

Today, a spokesman for the Newburgh Police Department said authorities have determined no motive for Rivera's alleged actions. The spokesman also declined to say whether anyone else was in the house with Rivera during the siege, and said police have no knowledge of who called headquarters with the initial "family quarrel" report.

Rivera was arraigned early today in Newburgh City Court on a charge of first degree murder. He was committed to the Orange County Jail in Goshen pending a preliminary hearing. No bail was set.

The 28-year-old slain police officer was a longtime resident of Newburgh. His mother and several other relatives also reside in Newburgh. A Marine veteran, Robinson served as a Marine Corps recruiting sergeant for several years before joining the police force in 1971.

Former Israeli Premier Felled by Stroke

Guarded Hopes for Ben-Gurion

TEL AVIV (AP) — David Ben-Gurion, who led Israel from its violent birth in 1948 into modern statehood, was in critical condition today after suffering a stroke, hospital officials say.

A Tel Hashomer Hospital spokesman said that the 87-year-old former premier had been "calm and sleeping" since he entered the hospital Sunday after being stricken at his apartment here.

Ben-Gurion's personal physician, Dr. Boleslaw Goldman, said a blood clot on the right side of Ben-Gurion's brain had paralyzed the right side of his body.

Dr. Goldman said Ben-Gurion was conscious and "feeling better" after receiving treatment throughout the night.

"We have hopes for his recovery, but they are guarded," he said.

Ben-Gurion resigned as premier in 1963. After several more stormy years in parliament, he retired from public life in 1970 to spend most of his time in quiet seclusion at his home in Sde Boker, a kibbutz in the Negev.

He first arrived in Palestine, the land later to become Israel, as a 20-year-old immigrant from Poland in 1906. Working as a laborer at the Jewish settlements that were then springing up in Palestine, he became a leading figure among Palestinian Jews under Turkish and then British rule.

Expelled by the Turks in 1915, he went to the United States to raise money for the Zionist cause. There he met and married Paula Munwess, who died in 1968.

When the British finally left on May 14, 1948, Ben-Gurion declared Israel an independent state and led his people in the fierce fighting with the Arabs that followed.

As the nation's first premier and its dominant figure for 15 years, Ben-Gurion labored to transform the desert into farmland and to forge the strong modern state of Israel.

He said the nation would not really exist until it had fully developed the desert and had tripled its population. Then, peace with the Arabs would be possible, he said.

"How long will it take?" he said a year ago on his 86th birthday. "I cannot tell you. I believe it can be done in 10 or 15 years, but I am not certain."

"I don't know in which direction he's going, but I'm optimistic," Dr. Boleslaw Goldman said. "He's in quite good shape for the situation he's in. But it's too early to tell. It takes time for the damage to heal."

The physician said Ben-Gurion, who has lived on a desert kibbutz (collective settlement) for the past 10 years, was being fed intravenously but was receiving no medication.

"He's in quite serious condition, but his chances are quite good," the doctor said after a visit to Ben-Gurion's bedside. "He won't die."

Goldman said the former leader, who recently spent 10 days in the hospital with a respiratory ailment, had been ill several times in the past few years.

The physician said the ailments were mainly caused by advancing age and Ben-Gurion's heart was still in "excellent" condition after the stroke.

President Continues 'Gate Counterattack

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)

— President Nixon's 1973 campaign to put Watergate behind him once and forever has begun in earnest with the embattled President embracing the role of underdog.

After holding an unorthodox live television-radio news conference Saturday in which he felt compelled to assure his fellow citizens that "I am not a crook," Nixon made a flying trip to politically friendly Georgia Sunday that had all the earmarks of a quest for votes.

Resorting to the sort of regional appeal beloved by politicians, Nixon paid tribute to the Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League as "the comeback team of 1973" because it won five straight games after opening the season with one win and three losses. Perhaps, he mused to a Macon audience, he should talk to Falcon coach Norm Van Brocklin "and find out how they did it."

Although the Macon stop produced a sometimes-noisy demonstration by several hundred young people who chanted for resignation or impeachment, the large crowds of Georgians who turned out were generally friendly, if far less enthusiastic than most campaign gatherings.

After a week of private huddles in Washington with congressional Republicans and selected southern Democrats, Nixon has gone public with a Watergate counterattack that is expected to produce more public appearances, sessions with the news media and presidential statements.

Nixon's decision to go marching through Georgia, officially to honor the 90th birthday of retired Democratic Rep. Carl Vinson and the 100th anniversary of the Mercer University Law School, was made within recent days.

In similar fashion the President gave little advance notice of his Saturday TV-radio appearance at the Disney World, Fla., convention of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Both stops, plus a Tuesday stopover at a Republican governors conference in Memphis en route back to Washington, were fitted quickly into the blueprint for Nixon's most ambitious effort yet to dispel the Watergate cloud that has enveloped him.

The President drew his biggest crowd, generously estimated at up to 20,000, upon arrival Sunday at Robins Air Force Base near Macon. After being presented with petitions of support bearing 37,000 signatures, Nixon made a stump speech that, in parts, was a carbon copy of some he delivered during the 1972 campaign that won him a landslide victory. For instance:

"Let me tell you that, because we have opened communication with countries that we completely disagree with in philosophy, the People's Republic of China and the Soviet Union, I believe that we can build a peace that will last, not just 10 years, but will last for generations and more . . ."

For the President, the week-end's big event, however, was the Saturday appearance at the APME convention. There he declared to his TV-radio audience:

"I made my mistakes, but in all my years of public life, I have never profited from public service. I have earned every cent. And in all my years of public life, I have never obstructed justice . . ."

"People have got to know whether or not their president is a crook. Well, I am not a crook . . ."

Court to Review School Integration

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The Supreme Court agreed today to review an order that calls for the integration of Detroit's mostly black inner city schools with those of the surrounding white suburbs.

The eventual opinion, to be issued after arguments later this term, is expected to resolve the widespread controversy over integration of metropolitan schools across county lines.

Similar desegregation actions are being litigated for school systems in Indianapolis, Hartford, Conn.; Wilmington, Del.; Buffalo, Atlanta and Louisville, been reversed by the 4th Circuit.

The high court acted on Michigan's appeal from a ruling on June 12, 1973, by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in favor of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund (LDF), which started the lawsuit. The circuit court somewhat modified the ruling in LDF's favor by U.S. District Judge Stephen J. Roth of Detroit. The issue of city-suburb integration came to the Supreme Court last term in what was looked on as a test case from Richmond, Va. But Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., a former member of both the Richmond school board and the Virginia Board of Education, disqualified himself, the Court split 4 to 4. The result was a refusal to reinstate the merger plan devised by U.S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige of Richmond, who had been reversed by the 4th Circuit.

In the Detroit area, more than 50 white suburbs, including affluent Grosse Pointe and Birmingham, would swell the school population affected to about 800,000. A massive cross-busing arrangement—the largest in the nation—was part of the Roth approach. Detroit's schools are 63 per cent black.

The 6th Circuit found the record amply supported Roth's findings that both state and local public officials had engaged in unconstitutional actions to retain segregation. But Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley said the lower courts were using the law "as a lever" in attaining what they consider to be "the desirable social goal of multi-school district racial balance throughout a three-county area." The counties are Wayne, Oakland and Macomb.

LDF urged the high court not to put the case on its docket until a final plan is worked out at the lower court level.

Rep. Gilman Seeks Aid for Farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (26th District) today urged the House Public Works Committee to provide more safeguards for farmers in the proposed Disaster Preparedness and Assistance Act.

Testifying before a House subcommittee, Gilman cited the multi-million dollar losses sustained by area farmers as a result of last year's Hurricane Agnes.

The proposed disaster law pending before Congress authorizes the President to make or guarantee loans to "replace, restore or repair private property lost or damaged in a disaster."

Rep. Gilman said that any proposed provision for emergency loans "certainly should include crop losses, since a farmer's crop is the same as any businessman's inventory. It is the source of the farmer's livelihood."

Social Security Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26) has introduced in the House of Representatives a bill to raise Social Security benefits by seven per cent in March and another four per cent in July, 1974.

"With rising food prices and other costs going up all the time, it is clear that Social Security benefits are inadequate to meet the needs of our older citizens," Gilman said.

Gilman is also sponsoring a bill, introduced earlier this week, raising the maximum allowable outside income for Social Security recipients to $7,500.

Caution Urged in Stewart Project

NEW YORK, until 1980," Dr. John P. Keith, the region still has time to "Meanwhile, the effects of He added that the problem of airport expansion is not such policies and the MTA of airport expansion is not possible occurrences could more efficient by deliberate consultants' assumptions about unique to the New York region, population, income, aircraft and that unless the full costs developed Stewart Airport to reductions, airline scheduling, size, load factors and engery and benefits of alternative constraints can be continually means of travel to meet monitored to determine if and demand are evaluated on a state that it will take only four improvements and for STOL when Stewart is needed as nationwide basis, the public years to make Stewart fully (short take-off or landing) another major jetport," Keith does not know if the wisest operable for a major jetport, aircraft," Keith said. said. course is being taken.

The conclusions of the RPA — a volunteer membership research and planning agency — came after analyzing a consultant's report to the Metropolitan Transportation Authority concerning expansion of the airport near Newburgh.

The RPA said huge projected passenger demand might not materialize, making it possible for Newark, Kennedy and La Guardia Airports to handle what increased demand does occur.

The consultant's report proposed staged expansion of Stewart to enable it to handle almost as many air travelers in 1990 as the three other airports accommodate now.

While urging restraint, the RPA did support recommended first stage development of Stewart which would provide the air service needs of the Mid-Hudson area and back-up facilities for the New York region.

The RPA said that while projected passenger demand might not increase as much as the MTA consultants suggest, the number of planes using existing jetports and the number of passengers per plane could be greater than the consultants project if the proper steps are taken.

Fuel shortages are already forcing airlines to consolidate flights on competing routes, thus increasing the number of passengers per lane, the RPA said.

The RPA added that convenient rail service to Kennedy and Newark Airports would relieve ground access congestion to the airports which currently constrains use.

For these reasons, the RPA said, evidence is far from conclusive that construction of a fourth regional jetport will be needed.

The RPA said, however, that it strongly supports the concept of landbank for a fourth major airport and has welcomed the acquisition of Stewart.

Citing the MTA consultants statement that "there will not be an appreciable need for Stewart to handle domestic scheduled passenger operations

ADMITS LIE ON STRIKE VOTE — Union President Richard J. Key Figures in Richardson Resignation

Mansfield Favors Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. General Elliot L. Richardson should be called before the Senate Judiciary Committee to testify without executive privilege, Mansfield said White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig said Richardson and former Special

Governors Cheered By Nixon Approach

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Republican governors appeared cheered today by President Nixon's new open approach to Watergate, but their enthusiasm apparently was falling short of producing any formal vote of confidence for the beleaguered chief executive.

Early arrivals among the 19 members of the Republican Governors Association praised Nixon's recent efforts to "go public" with his defense against mounting criticism, but only one indicated an unqualified

Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox "should also be called before the Judiciary Committee pronto."

Mansfield was interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

The dispute is over just what Richardson's position was in the days leading up to last Oct. 20, when Cox was fired by the administration and Richardson resigned.

President Nixon and Haig reportedly raised the issue in a series of Watergate briefings for members of Congress last week. According to accounts of some of the legislators, Nixon and Haig said that Richardson first agreed to the firing of Cox, then changed his mind. According to other accounts Richardson initially agreed to restrict Cox from seeking further presidential documents and then changed his mind.

Time magazine reproduced what was said to be one of these White House exchanges, beginning when Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., asked about the Cox firing. Nixon, according to Time, asked Haig to respond, and Haig told the group that Richardson had originated the idea to halt all further efforts by Cox to seek documents through the courts. Time then quoted this conversation:

"But General (Haig)," objected Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. "That contradicts Elliot's sworn testimony." Nixon: But he wasn't telling the truth. Mathias: But Mr. President, he was under oath. Nixon: You don't think you're going to get him for perjury, do you?

Pogue Becomes Space Fixit Man

job, Pogue will clamp a valve over one of the cooling system's lines, screw it into the line for about three minutes and fill the system with fluid. The radiator-like system that keeps electronic gear cool has been using a backup line since the middle of the Skylab 2 flight.

Hutchinson said if the repairs are successful, the astronauts can use cooling fluid to air condition their spacesuits Thanksgiving Day when they are scheduled to go on possibly the longest spacewalk ever.

If they have to use an air-cooled system during the outside work, they might have to break the planned 6½-hour spacewalk into two parts, Thursday and Friday.

There was no more discussion Sunday of the discovery by ground controllers that the rookie spacemen lied their first day in orbit Friday when they said none of them had vomited. Officials found out Pogue had only after tape recordings the crew thought were private were sent to the ground Saturday morning.

Chief astronaut Alan B. Shepard in an open radio message sharply rebuked the men for the "serious error in judgment" and Carr agreed the crew made "a dumb decision."

Privately officials said they wanted the public scolding of the astronauts because of concern the crew might try to keep other things from flight controllers.

Except for McCall the first arrivals discounted the political effects of the Watergate scandal in their states. The Oregon governor said he thought Republican success next year would be directly linked to the President's ability to regain credibility.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who came east two days early to look for support among southern Republicans in his unannounced quest for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination, said any formal comment on Watergate from the governors "should wait until we've heard from the President."

But he praised Nixon's recent steps to bolster his credibility.

Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon was less equivocal. McCall said flatly he would not "be a party to a knee-jerk piece of partisan adulation" supporting the President even though he believed Nixon was "on the way back" from "this morass he was in."

Gov. Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire said Nixon was making a strong come-back and that he did not believe there would be any effort at the conference to ask the President to resign.

Bell Lists '74 Priorities

TOWN OF ULSTER Bell, the seventh-ranking member of the Ways and Means Committee, told the group that one of its most important duties is to review all budgets submitted by various department commissioners. The committee then comes up with a balanced budget to be presented to legislators by mid-January for approval, Bell explained.

Bell said the death penalty will be a controversial issue when the Legislature reconvenes. He also expressed his opposition to a court reform bill which would be administered by judges of the Court of Appeals, saying he felt the court administrators should be a part of the state government.

Bell said he would present a bill for an expenditure limit of 15 cents per enrollee for campaign spending, saying he feels that heavy campaign spending can turn an election and that this is wrong.

Bell said he also would sponsor a control law which provides that all lobbyists must register with the Senate and Assembly and make a public accounting of expenditures every 30 days.

Nuclear power plants are another issue that should be given intensive study, Bell said, noting that six nuclear sites are being studied within a 40 miles radius of Kingston.

Asked from the audience about his political plans, Bell said he has had offers for higher posts but would like to continue in the Assembly, acquiring seniority rights in state government where he could play a more effective part.

Music Bridges Gap At Asian Weekend

By CARL GRAHAM

NEW PALTZ Music bridged the cultural gap between East and West in spectacular fashion at the State University College at New Paltz Friday night as Vasant Rai and his group presented a concert of classical music of India in the college's Lecture Center.

The program was presented by the East-West Union, a student service organization that presented a variety of offerings as a part of Asian Cultural Weekend on the campus, while the college simultaneously played host to the Upstate New York Asian Conference.

Rai's instrument is the sarod, a multi-stringed instrument played guitar-style and combining the best tonal features of guitar and banjo. He was accompanied by a tabla, two small drums played by hand, and a tamboura, an upright, wooden-throated string instrument that furnishes an approximation of the bass accompaniment in Western music.

Rai, who bears a striking facial resemblance to the late Gene Krupa when bent over his instrument, lost no time in demonstrating his virtuosity, leading his group through an opening raga that lasted more than an hour. Several persons in the audience, either not attuned to raga-time music or not accustomed to such large musical helpings, left after the first number. Another large group departed after the second raga, which lasted only 50 minutes, and only a devoted small band of sarodists was on hand for the third and final number.

Rai and his accompanists, who represent the Alam School of Indian Classical Music, were seated on a flower-bedecked platform, with colored lights and incense adding to the effect of the music. Several members of the audience sharpened their responses to the mood by lighting their own incense sticks during the concert.

Other weekend events presented by the East-West Union included demonstrations of calligraphy, batik making, Indian fabrics and costumes, an Asian dance performance, and a demonstration of Asian "empty hand" martial arts.

The Upstate Conference on Asian Studies featured a program put together by a committee headed by Dr. C. Lawrence Huang and members of the Asian Studies Faculty at the college, aided by the State Department of Education, the Asia Society, and the Japanese Consulate-General in New York City. Participants had a wide choice of films, demonstrations, exhibits, lectures and discussion groups dealing with many aspects of Asian life and culture.

Included in the list of guest speakers were U Nu, former prime minister of Burma, who spoke on "Buddhism and the Modern World;" Dr. Frederick F. Kao, professor of physiology at the Downstate Medical Center, who spoke on "Acupuncture — From Philosophy to Physiology;" and Masayoshi Matsumura, Japanese Consul General in New York City, who spoke on "Health Care, Education and Delivery and Social System in Southeast Asia."

Paltz Chairman Presents Views

NEW PALTZ

Dr. Gilbert J. Brenner, chairman of the Department of Geology at the State University College at New Paltz, has proposed an answer to one of the major problems of evolution: Where and when did flowering plants originate?

Until now two major answers have been offered to the question without conclusive evidence to support either view. One held that flowering plants originated in the arctic regions, the other that they originated in the tropics.

Dr. Brenner's microscopic studies of sedimentary rocks from various sites around the world now show that the oldest evidence of flowering plants occurs in the tropics. This evidence comes from the Middle Cretaceous period — about 100 million years ago. The farther one goes toward either pole, his research reveals, the younger are the rock formations in which the earliest evidence is found.

Furthermore, Dr. Brenner's research indicates that the world in Middle Cretaceous times consisted of four major climatic regions and that the tropical region in which flowering plants originated was semiarid.

Flowering plants, known technically as angiosperms, are now the dominant form of plant life on earth. Characterized by structures called ovaries in which seeds develop, they are found from the hottest regions, both arid and humid, to the coldest. Far more species — some 250,000 are known in the angiosperm division of the plant kingdom than in any other.

Since the structures of whole plants are much more fragile than the shells and bones of animals, they survive far less often the great pressures that turn layers of sediment into rock. For this reason the origin of angiosperms has remained a difficult problem.

But minute grains of pollen, which fertilizes the ovules that become seeds, are preserved. The characteristic forms of angiosperm pollen can be identified by examining sedimentary rocks under a microscope.

Dr. Brenner first began studying fossil pollen seven years ago under a grant from the National Science Foundation. He has collected specimens of rock from all over the United States and in the Middle East, geologists have sent him specimens from other regions, and has studied reports published in the scientific literature.

His findings are summarized in a paper he gave recently in Dallas at the annual meeting of the Geological Society of America and Associated Societies. They were presented earlier at the International Congress of Systematic and Evolutionary Biology in Boulder, Colo., the proceedings of which will be published next year by Columbia University Press.

In his paper, Dr. Brenner summarizes his conclusion as follows:

"... Investigations ... from many localities around the world suggest that the oldest ... angiosperm pollen is found in localities from the tropical latitudes. ... It now appears that (they) appear in younger and younger sediments and proceed into higher and higher latitudes on both sides of the equator."

Dr. Brenner also reported that his studies of fossil pollen and spores indicate that the world was divided into four major provinces of plant life during the Middle Cretaceous time. He termed these provinces the Northern Laurasian, the Southern Laurasian, the Northern Gondwana and the Southern Gondwana.

Under the revolutionary new theory of continental drift, Laurasia and Gondwana were two land masses that existed before the development of the modern continents. Laurasia comprised present-day north America, Greenland and northern Eurasia, and Gondwana included modern South America, Africa, the Indian subcontinent and Australia.

Dr. Brenner's research supports the theory of continental drift in that the Middle Cretaceous pollen from India is characteristic of plants of the higher southern latitudes rather than tropical plants. This finding suggests that the Indian land mass migrated from the south to join the Asian land mass.

According to Dr. Brenner, the Northern Laurasian Province, the present Arctic region, had a temperate climate; the Southern Laurasian, the middle latitudes of Europe and North America, had warm temperate to subtropical humid conditions; the Northern Gondwana, the northern parts of Africa and South America, was semiarid; and the Southern Gondwana, with areas of Argentina, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and India, was more humid than the tropics.

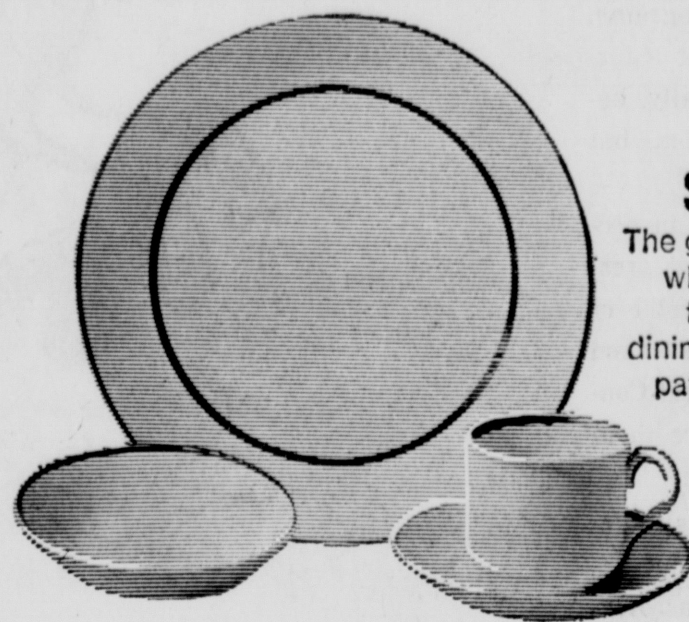

He found the earliest angiosperm pollen in the Northern Gondwana Province.

Brenner, a native of New York City, received his bachelor's degree from City College of New York, his M.S. from the New York University and his Ph.D. from Pennsylvania State University. He worked as a research paleontologist for the Standard Oil Company of California before joining the faculty of the State University College at New Paltz in 1964. He was named a full professor in 1970 and chairman of his department this fall.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 19, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — To save critical fuels, President Nixon has called upon his fellow Americans to turn down their thermostats. "That means in this room, too," he said solemnly.

He also cut back the allocations of jet fuel for aircraft and asked governors to reduce highway speeds to 50 miles per hour. Afterwards, he showed up late for a dinner honoring his wife, Pat and cracked: "I'm sorry I'm late."

I could drive only 50 miles an hour.

The truth is that the President and his aides haven't been practicing the austerity they have been preaching. He drafted his public appeal in balmy Key Biscayne, Fla., where the warm sun kept the temperatures comfortable. His luxury jet burned 8,000 gallons of fuel to make the round trip. The following weekend, he helicoptered to his Camp David retreat, which is only about an hour from the White House at 50 miles per hour. The round trip took an estimated 140 gallons of fuel. DOG MUST SHARE

He has made one concession to the fuel pinch, according to our White House sources.

His Irish setter, King Timahoe, who is a difficult helicopter passenger, used to follow the President to Camp David in solitary splendor in the back seat of a chauffeur-driven limousine. Now the dog must share his limousine with low-ranking White House aides. For a man who has devoted a lifetime to striving to reach the White House, Richard Nixon spends less time there than any past president. But a spokesman told us the President has no plans to curtail his travel.

The men around the President have also displayed little spirit of sacrifice. Energy czar John Love, who wants his fellow citizens to drive slower and drive less, is whisked around Washington in a Chrysler New Yorker from the White House motor pool. His chauffeur picks him up at his home in the morning and deposits him at his doorstep at night.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton declared on national television that "energy has been too cheap" in the United States. Gasoline is $1.35 a gallon in Italy, he remarked, in an obvious hint that American motorists should be paying more for their gas.

HIS GAS PAID FOR
The taxpayers, of course, pay for Morton's gasoline. As a concession, he has given up his White House Chrysler and now gets around in a government-owned Plymouth — chauffeur-driven, of course. When he flies, the six-foot seven-inch Morton goes first class, courtesy of the taxpayers — because he is too big, he complains, "to fit into a coach seat." He also makes use of Interior Department airplanes, but only, said a spokesman, "when his schedule is screwed up."

The Pentagon has also made a big show of reducing temperatures and cutting back fuel consumption. But this hasn't cramped the lifestyle of the military brass. The Pentagon still operates its sleek fleet of chauffeur-driven cars to ferry around the brass and their bigwig friends.

The demand for VIP limousine service is so great, in fact, that the Pentagon is forced to rent cars to supplement its motor pool.

JUNKETS
Nor has the military curtailed its personalized worldwide flight service for junketing congressmen and other assorted VIPs. Three days after the President's TV appeal to save fuel, the Army ferried a planeload of congressmen and military officers to West Point for the Army-Miami University football game.

Throughout the government, indeed, the bureaucrats are burning more gas than ever. Government automobiles burned 34 million more gallons of gasoline in 1973 than in 1972. And despite the oil squeeze, the projected increase for 1974 is an additional 30 million-gallon increase.

Down the line, the bureaucrats apparently take their example from the President who has his own fleet of five jetliners, 13 helicopters, 11 jetstars, 23 limousines and a yacht.

Technically, the aircraft owned by the military which has asked Congress for money to buy 17 new choppers to replace those now in use. Two more jumbo communications planes are also being outfitted and the White House is shopping for four medium-range jets.

TEST FLIGHTS
When the President isn't using his personal air force, the planes are routinely taken aloft for test flights so they will also be in top condition when he calls. Usually, a back-up plane and a press plane accompany the President on all major flights, carrying everything from the hot line phone to the First Lady's hairdresser.

These Boeing 707 jetliners each consume about 2,000 gallons of fuel per hour. A round-trip to San Clemente, in other words, uses up 20,000 gallons. If all three presidential planes make a flight, as they normally do, the fuel consumption adds up to a staggering 60,000 gallons every time the President decides to spend a few days at San Clemente.

Meanwhile, Nixon has lowered the temperature at the White House where his staff works while he is at San Clemente or Key Biscayne.

Drugs and the Athlete

Congress, properly concerned over the nation's problems with drug abuse, has been quick to adopt legislation dealing with law enforcement and educational programs.

But a different standard apparently is applied to the area of professional and amateur athletics, where whispers of improper use of drug in both competitive and non-competitive situations have become increasingly audible in recent months.

Our lawmakers are reluctant to make a national issue out of the drug problem in organized sports, for which a significant number of congressmen hold the same emotional respect as the fan in the White House.

But books and articles relating lurid tales of "pep" freely administered by team physicians have been published by athlete authors. And stories of widespread "social" use of both hard and soft drugs among team players are common. Pain-killing and body-building pills are reportedly dispensed routinely in locker rooms from high school to the major professional leagues.

Phil Shinnick, athletic director at Rutgers University and himself a former athlete, has said, "if a federal investigator walked through the dressing room of the National Football League or the Olympic team or some of the major competitions in amateur athletics . . . they would have a lot of people in jail."

A bill in the Senate Commerce Committee which calls for a study of drug use in high school and college athletics and other amateur sports is vigorously opposed by school officials, who fear federal meddling in their programs. The amateur athletic bill is not a target of their concern specifically because of its drug study provision, but they concede it is a factor.

No legislation to curb abuse in professional sports is contemplated presently. NFL officials, at the center of criticism of the problem, have pledged to conduct their own cleanup and Congress has been anxious to give them ample time.

But physical checks of players to detect drug use has been ruled out because of opposition of player associations. Examination is a key point in recommended procedures to discourage drug use.

Congress has been very quiet in its gentle investigation of drugs in sports. Exposure of the problem, according to key legislators, would be "shocking" to the country.

But the simmering situation could erupt into a major scandal that would be worse than an open approach to the sports-drugs dilemma.

It is time for Congress to quit dragging its feet and seriously investigate locker room practices that are illegal, unfair and dangerous.

Holiday Mail Advanced

Fewer airline flights due to the energy shortage have not yet affected the mail service, but further reductions, particularly as they may come during the Christmas season, give cause for concern, says Postmaster General E. T. Klassen. He has therefore advanced the deadline for the holiday mail one week for domestic mail and two for foreign mail. Santa Klaus (en) wants his sleigh filled on time.

The new deadline for mailing domestic first class mail is December 8 rather than December 15, and packages mailed within the continental United States should be sent by December 3 instead of December 10. Airmail cards and packages, except those for Alaska and Hawaii, should be sent no later than December 15, rather than December 21.

The schedule of recommended mailing dates is available at local offices. They are mainly concerned with mail to servicemen in all parts of the world. They are a good guide to civilian overseas mail as well.

The postal service has even prepared hints on the wrapping of packages to be mailed. Copies of the free eight-page "How to Pack and Wrap Parcels for Mailing" are available by writing to Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81900, or from federal information centers in 36 cities around the country. Ask your post office for the one nearest you.

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia — The exotic meeting in the Red Palace here between the King of the Arabs, surrounded by his Bedouin chieftains, and the German-born American Jew, a scene of contrast and irony, was a dramatic climax — but what followed raised staggering problems.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger emerged from his two-hour private talk reinforced in all his intuitions: austere King Faisal of Saudi Arabia will not "restore his faith" in the United States until Israel actually withdraws from occupied Arab lands.

For the U.S. — but most particularly for Europe and Japan — those words carried danger. Yet, Henry Kissinger could not shake the King of Saudi Arabia, who crystallized the following points with punctuated brevity (in deep contrast to the shrill rhetoric of some other Arab leaders):

First, he kept his silence year after year since the Israelis seized the Sinai peninsula, the Golan heights and religious places in East Jerusalem sacred to the leader of Islam.

Second, he had done so in faith that the U.S. would respect its long friendship with the Arabs and persuade Israel to do what two American Presidents had repeatedly promised and the United Nations had ordered after the six-day war of 1967.

Third, his silence had not endeared him to other Arabs. Now he would accept no more promises, even if he himself were willing to take one more chance, which he was not.

Fourth, the systematic increase in Saudi oil production was economic folly for his country. It could not spend the income and the earned dollars had a precarious future value less than oil in the ground. Yet he had agreed to a production increase to prevent oil famine in the West. All that was before the recent war.

For his part, Kissinger convinced the King that he was facing a "serious" man of genuine "sincerity" unlike, the King later told intimates, some other Americans who had claimed authority but failed to perform.

Kissinger opened his two-hour talk with the man whose possession of oil confers frightening power by saying he had read all the private correspondence between the King and three American Presidents: John Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon. From that record, said Kissinger, it was embarrassingly clear that the King had reason to complain.

But President Nixon was now unequivocally committed to Israel withdrawal and he, Kissinger, would not have undertaken the negotiation if not convinced that settlement was possible.

With a familiar display of ego, Kissinger informed the King that he was not in the habit of failing and pointed to his success in negotiating an end to American participation in the Vietnam War after four years of work. The two then agreed that a peace conference, preferably in the U.S., should start before the end of the year.

But on the matter of softening the oil squeeze, a principle reason for his trip here, Kissinger failed to gain assurances on the basis of new American credibility. The King insisted again and again the proof was in the pudding, not in his promise.

This adamant stand was inescapably clear to us when we saw the King later in an exclusive interview. He declined to agree that the visit marked "a turn of the corner" in the breakdown of Saudi Arabia's confidence in the U.S. He said only that Kissinger had impressed him deeply as a man who meant what he said, and that he "hoped" the U.S. was now prepared to deliver. Clearly the King still doubts American willingness to take on Israel. This means that even though Kissinger has now established his own credibility with the King, that is not enough to loosen the tightening oil stranglehold.

This might change if Kissinger could persuade Israel to start a pullback from the Suez Canal and produces agreement on a phased withdrawal.

Otherwise, the absolute monarch, who rules a remote desert kingdom which still follows with astonishing precision the teachings of the prophet Mohammed, may prove to be as immovable in his demands as Israel has been in hers. The result of that could be incalculable chaos in the West, a well-known fact that Washington only very recently has begun to acknowledge.

An Adamant Faisal

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Dutch Schultz and All the Boys

Gangsters have changed. When a reporter meets one today, it is in a lawyer's office and the thug dresses like a pailbearer, speaks of children and charities and smells as though he swam in gallons of Evening in Paris. When I met Dutch Schultz on Broadway, I said, "Hello, Mr. Flegenheimer," and he would spit.

Arthur Flegenheimer was one of the few men who could have played the part of a gangster in a movie. He had the build of a man who stood under a falling safe. His eyes were peeled grapes. His skin was like plaster before it hardens. His fingers rubbed against each other perpetually.

Dutch had a vocabulary of 300 words, all of them bad. The only time his buddies heard him laugh was the day he gave an old nun a hotfoot. At age 15, the police yanked him out of elementary school for burglary. He was sent to a youth home, and beat a guard to a pulp.

He was unlike the others I knew, men who maimed for money. Luciano was considerate. He always sent word to his victims that they were about to be hit. Willie Moretti drank wine in a Cliffside Park beanery and longed for the "old country." Frank Costello sent notes to writers in restaurants: "I like what you write." He was proving that he could read.

Schultz's first job was driving beer to speakies in a moving van. Mentally, he was low-key. He drove for three years before he asked himself why he didn't steal a brewery and hire a driver. He found a mental giant named Joey Noe and started a partnership.

One might be expected to have the money, the other the brains. In this instance, neither had either. Dutch bought needle beer in Jersey, opened a speakiey in New York, and sold beer to himself. This didn't work out, so he "bought" additional speakies, hired unemployed murderers, and bought his partners out with a loaded .38.

Jim Horan, who knew Dutch, said the hood soon had 17 speaks, three warehouses, two breweries, and a gang which shot citizens at night and spent their afternoons being treated for V.D. When Schultz had $7,000,000 he began to take giant steps without asking "May I?" He moved into territories which Waxey Gordon and Legs Diamond thought they owned.

Schultz told Joey Noe to expect some wild shootouts. Mr. Noe did not suspect that it would be so wild that he would be the first one killed. In the morgue, Joey Noe wore an expression of perpetual surprise. No matter how many times the medical examiner yanked him out of the ice box, Joey looked as though he still couldn't believe it.

One of Dutch's hit men was a maniac named Vincent Coll. Vince quit. Dutch did something highly unusual; he began to sweat. Coll sent his kid brother to demand $10,000. Dutch paid it. And Dutch was a character who wouldn't pay a dime to witness the Second Coming.

Vince counted the $10,000, visited a Schultz warehouse, and wrecked $100,000 in slot machines. It is sufficiently difficult to get these things not to pay off without bending them so they don't play at all. Besides, Coll killed Vince Carney. Mr. Flegenheimer's true friend.

This act is called an R.S.V.P. I was on night rewrite when Coll was sawed in half inside a phone booth. The machinegun also reduced the size of the booth. After that, Dutch became unafraid to walk on sidewalks. When he saw me, he still spit.

Bookkeeping drove Schultz nuts. His accountant was Jules Martin, who added figures in the Catskill Mountains. Dutch said Jules was $21,000 light. Jules said Dutch couldn't add. The Dutchman said, "Forget it, let's take a walk." As they got out on the porch, Schultz shot Martin's head off. That made two guys who couldn't add.

Lulu Rosencranz invited Schultz to a Newark chophouse. He should not have accepted an invitation from his own bodyguard. But he did. Who can figure that a bodyguard's job is to set up his boss for a rubout in the Gent's Room? That's what happened.

At Newark City Hospital, Schultz was leaking like a busted can of tomatoes. He kept murmuring: "Mamma, Mamma!" A buddy shook his head. "He's still lying. He never had one."...

Court Rulings Aid McGivern, Culhane

STORMVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — That the five will soon be transferred to the jurisdiction of local courts for resentencing or new trials.

The U.S. Supreme Court earlier last week refused to hear a New York State appeal on a state court decision declaring New York's death penalty unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court's action was the final step in striking the capital punishment statute from the books, and the state legislature must now decide in its upcoming session whether to draw up a new death penalty law.

The five condemned men were all convicted under the old law and must be resen-tenced to prison terms, up to a maximum life imprisonment.

"It will be up to the local court to send us court orders calling on us to release them for resentencing," said the department spokesman. "County deputies will come to Green Haven and take them to local jails."

Culhane, 28, and McGivern, 29, face a new trial first. The New York City men were convicted of killing a Westchester County deputy sheriff near Kingston in 1968. The two were state prison inmates at the time, serving terms for robbery, and allegedly shot the deputy during an escape attempt as they were being es-

Drifter Admits Setting Fire in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A young drifter with an arson record, paroled only a week earlier from an Arizona reform school, has admitted setting the deadliest structural blaze in the city's history, police said Sunday.

Michael Altenburger, 18, was being held on suspicion of murder in the Stratford Apartment fire, which killed 24 persons late Thursday night and early Friday.

Police and arson investigators said they would bring charges against Altenburger today or Tuesday.

Retired Roman Catholic Cardinal John Francis McIntire was to say a special mass today for the dead—most of whom were Mexican-Americans—at a church in the downtown Los Angeles neighborhood of the Stratford.

The case against Altenburger includes "physical evidence" in addition to his confession, investigators said. They would not say what that evidence is.

Altenburger was arrested some distance away, near the UCLA campus, by officers who found him sleeping on a bench at a bus stop, and brought in for routine questioning.

Police said it was learned then that he had been paroled Nov. 8, his 18th birthday, from the state Industrial School for Boys at Ft. Grant, Ariz., where he was sent after an arrest in September, 1972, for arson at a Tucson mobile home lot where he lived.

He then became manager of a New York hotel and headed a seaport study commissioned by the Urban Development Corp. The study recommended a long-time McKneally goal—to make Newburgh a seaport—but the UDC said further study was needed.

Flags on public buildings were ordered flown at half staff until after McKneally's funeral, for which arrangements were incomplete.

Ex-Newburgh Mayor Dies

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UPI) — George McKneally, a former mayor of this Hudson Valley city, died of a heart attack Sunday at his law office. He was 62.

McKneally had complained of chest pains and his secretary called the family doctor. When the doctor arrived, McKneally was dead.

His political career was capped by his election as mayor in 1967. He had held various local offices for 20 years.

In 1971, McKneally lost the mayoral nomination on the Republican line to Councilman George Shaw, whom he had persuaded to join the ticket four years earlier. McKneally ran as an independent but was defeated by Shaw.

He then became manager of a New York hotel and headed a seaport study commissioned by the Urban Development Corp. The study recommended a long-time McKneally goal—to make Newburgh a seaport—but the UDC said further study was needed.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was nearly unchanged this morning after a previous week of wild and busy trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction near the opening while advancing stocks balanced losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

$150,000 Libel Suit Filed

SHANDAKEN — Charging "Watergate-type dirty tricks," Heidi Leard, unsuccessful Democratic Conservative candidate for councilman in Shandaken, has filed a $150,000 libel suit in Ulster County Supreme Court against Shandaken Town Supervisor Raymond Dunn, Marian Umhey, Shandaken councilman and owner of the Ulster County Townsman and six Shandaken GOP committeemen. They include Benny Neilsen of Phoenicia, Ralph Hoffman and Leonard Ford of Shandaken, Albert Parsons of Chichester, Frank Crnkovic of Big Indian and Leonard E. Van Valkenberg of Pine Hill.

Mrs. Leard alleges that the suit is based on a political advertisement placed by the Shandaken Republican Town Committee in the last issue of the Townsman before election which, she said "falsely" stated that she, Mrs. Leard, had publicly declared that she favored unrestricted building on Rt. 28 and "inferred that if she were elected, Rt. 28 could become another Albany Avenue."

Mrs. Leard alleges that "a similar false charge appeared in a letter sent by the Republican Committee at about the same time to all of the town's registered voters."

"These eleven-hour charges, to which I could not possibly make an effective reply before the election, were nothing more than a Watergate-type 'dirty trick,'" she said. "They were utterly false and the defendants knew or should have known that they were. But the Republican bosses apparently began to fear that I might be elected, and didn't want to take a chance on having an independent and outspoken critic of their past policies on the town board. The narrow margin of my defeat—88 votes, persuaded me that their fears were justified. Without the last-minute smear, I am certain I would have been elected."

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — A 10-year-old boy was in critical condition Sunday after eating clams poisoned by a substance health authorities said was a "cousin" of the red tide.

Dr. John McGarry, director of the Sarasota County Health Department, banned all shellfish gathering in Sarasota waters after Lonnie Long, 10, of Siesta Key and two other persons, suffered paralytic shellfish poisoning as a result of eating the clams.

"We're still not sure what the organism is, but it's a cousin of the red tide and the toxin produced by it is very potent," McGarry said.

Long, and two other boys were digging for clams in the shallows of Siesta Key in the Gulf of Mexico. Long and another boy, who was not identified, ate some of the clams and came down with the ailment.

For Mrs. Gerald Ford, Life Is No Longer the Same

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you open a door at Gerald R. Ford's house, even for a breath of fresh air, alarms sound in what looks like a blue laundry truck parked outside.

The vehicle, base for the Secret Service men assigned to protect the vice president-designate's family, sits awkwardly in the driveway, front tires elevated on cement blocks and back ones deflated.

If you telephone the Fords, even at their private number, a Secret Service man answers.

Life says Elizabeth Ford, wife of the House Republican leader, isn't what it used to be.

The Fords have lived in the same unpretentious, brick and clapboard four-bedroom house on Crown View Drive in suburban Alexandria, Va., for 19 years.

Mrs. Ford says that even privately, she hopes events won't make her husband president.

"In the first place," she said in an hour-long interview, "I don't think President Nixon should be. will be impeached ... no, I don't think he should resign."

And how does Mrs. Ford feel when she hears talk of impeachment and resignation of President Nixon at the same time her husband is going through confirmation hearings in the Senate?

"I shudder," she said.

Sitting in a living room decorated in aqua and beige, Mrs. Ford talked, among other things, about Watergate.

"I think that really and truly it will probably take a long time to get to the bottom of the testimony and tapes, etc. But I think that in the end, it's going to work out all right for President Nixon," she said.

Elizabeth Bloomer Ford, at 55, has been a congressional wife almost half her life. She married the former Big Ten football star in October 1948, only a few weeks after he was elected to the House from Michigan's 5th District, which includes the furniture-making city of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Ford is a tall, stately woman with high cheek bones and a reddish bouffant hair style. The years of political campaigning and pressures have left only a few wrinkles around her gray-blue eyes. A pinched nerve in her neck — the result of trying to open a window in the house nine years ago — keeps her from the golf and skiing she loves.

And from dancing. "Oh, I do some dancing in the privacy of my bedroom," said the woman who once did modern dance under the direction of dance stars Martha Graham, Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman. "But lately, I haven't had any chance to."

Mrs. Ford's words come slowly, carefully chosen, when she speaks about politics, but ask about her four children and her face breaks into a wide smile.

Mike, 23, is a seminary student in Massachusetts. Jack, 21, who recently shaved off his beard, is a forestry student at the University of Utah. Steve, 17, is a senior at public high school, and Susan, 16, is a junior at a private girls' school in Maryland.

Reprieve for First Dutchesse DWI Offenders

POUGHKEEPSIE

Dutchess County drivers charged with their first DWI offense may have some reprieve from the mandatory six-month license revocation.

A combination of congested court calendars and the efforts of the Dutchess County Task Force on Alcohol Problems have instead led to the establishment of a five-week course at Dutchess Community College where the first group of 25 DWIs are confronted with the lethal dangers of alcohol abuse.

Allen Krause, a social worker at the Mental Health Center who serves as co-chairman of the Dutchess County Task Force on Alcohol Problems, classifies the course as both educational and therapeutic.

"We seek to help those who are referred by the District Attorney's Office to recognize they have serious drinking problems," he explains.

Building upon the dangers of alcohol's effect on driver responses, Lawrence Pixley, course instructor, utilizes group therapy measures as class members seek to dissociate drinking from driving. Attention is also given to defensive driving techniques.

Both Kraus and Pixley credit George Marlow, assistant district attorney, for his assistance in rehabilitating DWIs. Drivers charged with the offense plead guilty and are sentenced after the course is completed.

Successful completion of the five-week program by the offending driver usually results in a plea for leniency. Marlow has selected only first offenders to participate in the course.

Rescue Squad Plans Drive

STAATSBURG

The Staatsburg Rescue Squad is making plans for a fund drive during 1974 to purchase a new ambulance.

Edward L. Leadbitter has been appointed Fund Raising Chairman by squad members. In accepting the position, Leadbitter stated that he was extremely pleased with the support given by the residents and friends of the Staatsburg Fire District last year.

He further stated that the squad is operating with a 1961 Buick which must now be replaced in order to upgrade the quality of service rendered and meet the ever increasing demands of the district. "We are continually upgrading our squad personnel and must do likewise with our equipment," he noted.

Leadbitter, a resident with his wife Barbara on Old Post Road, is a former Fire Commissioner of the district and holds life membership in both the Hyde Park Fire Department and the Staatsburg Fire Department. He has been a lieutenant with the Staatsburg Rescue Squad for the past two years.

Big Cars Causing Some Big Problems in State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Some of those officials has chosen to ride in anything small or more economical. Others may change soon, however. The state keeps no gas mileage figures on its cars, but federal tests indicate that limousines average seven miles a gallon or less, and the big luxury cars for its top officials, and apparently only roads gets 13 miles a gallon, and small cars do considerably better than average.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who last weekend ordered low-speed limits on state roads to conserve gasoline, uses two limousines—a state-owned car in Albany and his own car in New York City. A spokesman said he has no plans to replace either one with a smaller car.

State Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz and Secretary of State John Lomenzo have limousines, and legislative leaders use state cars in the full-size range. Four Assembly leaders and three senators have Cadillacs or Lincolns, while most heads of state executive agencies and departments have lower-priced but still heavy and luxury-appointed Buicks, Oldsmobiles, Mercurys or Chryslers.

Commission Chairman Joseph Swidler currently uses a Chrysler. But a spokesman said recently that he will get a smaller car as soon as the state completes taking in bids for this year's purchase of new vehicles.

"He wants to trade down and set an example," the spokesman said.

Speaker Is Set at Bard

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON
Dr. Alan Charity will speak at Bard College tonight on: "From Fictions to Supreme Fictions, The American Civil War."

Dr. Charity is senior lecturer at the University of York, England. The talk will begin at 8 p.m. in Bard Hall.

Dr. Charity is known as an authority on Dante and Wordsworth. From 1969 to 1971 he was a visiting professor at Vassar College and came to America this fall to participate in a conference on medieval studies at the University of Toronto, followed by lectures at Vassar, New Paltz, and Bard.

His study of the American Civil War period was furthered by research when he was in this country two years ago. The Bard lecture is open to the public.

Appointments At Vassar

POUGHKEEPSIE
Two Vassar College alumnae have been appointed to positions in the college's development office.

Meredith Morse, a 1966 graduate, and Delma Vender Veer, class of '51, will serve as Associate Director and Development Officer respectively.

Ms. Morse is a member of the college's capital campaign staff in New York. Before that position she had worked in New York for two financial firms, and audio-visual organization, and for Cue magazine.

Mrs. Vender Veer has been a member of the Development Office and special assistant to the president for the capital campaign, and has also worked in the college's News Office and served as coordinator of the Ten-College Exchange Program. Earlier she did promotional and editorial work for various Time, Inc. magazines.

An Uneasy Calm Settles Over Greek Capital

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek government is promising to continue steps toward the restoration of democracy but is using tanks and troops to halt opponents apparently dissatisfied with its timetable. "Our mission still is to prepare the nation for elections as soon as possible after order is restored," Spyridon Zournatzis, chief government spokesman, told a news briefing Sunday night. He reiterated the position of Premier Spyros Markezinis, who has promised free parliamentary elections in 1974. At the same time the government disclosed that the death toll in the civil unrest had climbed to nine, five killed Friday and four on Saturday. The Athens medical examiner said six of the victims were bystanders, including a 22-year-old Norwegian woman and a 5-year-old Greek boy.

Markezinis took office last month as head of Greece's first civilian cabinet since the 1967 army coup. President George Papadopoulos, the coup leader, gave Markezinis a mandate to steer Greece back toward democracy. But opponents, skeptical of these claims, have taken to the streets contending that real democracy can only be restored after the overthrow of the Papadopoulos regime. The violence came to a head early Saturday when army commandos and police put a bloody end to the four-day occupation of the Athens Polytechnic Institute. The identities of the leaders of the occupation have not been disclosed, but many of those seen clashing with police at the institute were well past university age. The government has called the demonstrators anarchists. Several leading politicians, including the last pre-coup premier, Panayotis Canellopoulos, have publicly stated their support for the demonstrators. Canellopoulos, however, expressed reservations about some of their slogans, including their call for an end to the U.S. military presence in Greece.

STATUS SYMBOLS — Mark Kachigan (L) associate United Way campaign chairman, and Tom Tierney, communities chairman, study the status board for the 1974 United Way Fund Campaign to support the 16 community service agencies in Ulster County.

United Way Optimistic

KINGSTON Guarded optimism prevailed at the recent United Way Report Meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Results show $24,198, or 54 per cent of the $410,000 goal, has been raised to date for the 16 member agencies in Ulster County, an increase of only three per cent since last week. William Sloane, Rotron vice president who is serving as campaign chairman, said: "The moment of truth is at hand. The solicitors are at work and, with a strong effort by everyone, we have the goal in sight. We must find a way to give every resident the opportunity to contribute. If everyone gives as little as a dollar an agency or even a dollar a month, we can do it." The campaign progress parallels last year's results at this time, officials said. This year's campaign started Oct. 7, one month later than last year. A hoped-for finish by Thanksgiving is very doubtful at this point, they said, so the campaign will continue "full speed into December."

Marist Students Establish 'Record'

READY TO ROLL—Students from Marist College, Poughkeepsie set out Friday on a record-breaking beer barrel-rolling trek from the campus to Newark, N.J., to raise funds for the American Cancer Society. Preparing for the start are, (l) G. Bradford Davis, president of the Dutchess County unit of the ACS, Peter Wilderrotter, student chairman of the event; Ricard J. Stearns, Cancer Crusade chairman and Dr. Linus R. Foy, president of Marist College. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

POUGHKEEPSIE to East 233rd Street in the Bronx. The sun was just breaking through the last rain clouds Friday as a group of red-clad Marist College students started across campus with the beer barrel.

The empty quarter-keg, with two long dolly handles attached to an axis through the barrel, made a horrendous screeching noise as it grated along the macadam paths out onto Route 9.

The barrel returned to the campus with honors and a world's record after a 250-mile trip that took it around the downtown streets of Poughkeepsie to gather momentum, down Route 55 to Brewster, following Route 22 south through White Plains and Newark destination was the Anheuser-Busch Brewery. The barrel and attendant vehicle are decorated with Budweiser labels, and the students took a tour of the brewery when in Newark.

The Budweiser people also cooperated with Marist College officials in notifying police departments along the way of the undertaking.

At roll-off time, noon Friday, when a cheer went up from 150 voices following brief ceremonies, there was one snag still in the plan.

It seems that police officials in New Jersey's Bergen County, on the west side of the George Washington Bridge, did not condone the barrel rolling Friday through their suburban areas, President Linus Foy.

Student support is coming from residents living in House One of Champaign Hall. The barrel was empty and fastened (and it did) they will make up to the dolly for stability, but actually rolls when pushed. About 60 students are involved in the exploit, rolling in four-hour shifts.

The previous world record, according to Marist sources, is believed to be held by St. Joseph's College, North Windham, Me. Last year, St. Joseph's students rolled a barrel 230 miles to support their local United Fund.

Peter Wilderrotter of Dr. Foy has written a letter of introduction and explanation, and marchers are also in contact with Mrs. Allen Webster, executive director of the American Cancer Society.

Welfare Employees Seek Revision

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON While lauding the Ulster County Legislature for its proposal to increase the first seven grades civil service employee's salaries from $3,613 to $5,000, a group of welfare department employees are appealing to the county board to give the same $1,387 increase to employees in "all grades."

Ms. Donna Miller, a spokesman for the Social Services employees, contends that more than 80 per cent of the county employees earn an annual salary that is below the figure set by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the minimum annual cost of a "lower level" budget for a non-urban family of four—$8,051.

It is expected that Ms. Miller's group together with labor leaders in the community and members of the Ulster County Civil Service Employees Association will turn out en masse at Tuesday's public hearing on the proposed $37.7 million to "request an emergency revision of the pay scale for all job titles." The hearing is at 7 p.m. in the County Office Building.

James Davis, caseworker with the Welfare Department, will speak for the social services employees while John Donnaruma, president of the local unit of CSEA will represent all the civil service employees.

Donnaruma today took exception to what he termed the county's "insinuation" that CSEA has not been working for the betterment of employees.

He said "CSEA is grateful that the Ulster County Legislature has taken a step forward into reality for the approximate 200 employees who have been just bordering in poverty."

He called the proposed $5,000 minimum laudable.

However, he said, "on Nov. 8 at the executive session of the legislature it was reportedly mentioned from the floor in substance that since CSEA has not been able to move the salaries, the legislature has a moral obligation to move the salaries upward."

For the record, Donnaruma said, "CSEA has fought hard to raise the salaries of each and everyone of the employees."

He said that a comparative job and salary study was presented to the Legislature's negotiating committee in the fall of 1972 and it was "flatly rejected." Therefore, he explained, "we negotiated to allow CSEA to conduct its own comprehensive job study during the term of the current 1973-74 agreement."

Donnaruma said that this is being done. "The insinuation that CSEA has not been working for betterment of employees is other than the truth," he said.

"May I ask where was the Legislature's moral obligation when we were negotiating our current agreement?"

"We feel that a substantial raise in all the salaries at this time would be such a moral obligation. This is not the time for county government to attack CSEA but rather a time for mutual cooperation and consideration for Ulster County employees. We feel this is a reasonable approach," he concluded.

Ms. Miller, recalling that 200 out of the county's 900 employees working full time are receiving public assistance, said "we as a group feel it is a unique and absurd situation."

She said that professional workers with college degrees are receiving salaries just above the $5,000 level and most of the employees in positions of great responsibility are earning less than $7,000 a year.

Citing the Bureau of Labor Statistics announcing the cost of a lower level budget for a non-urban family of four at $8,051, she said the bureau maintains that for a middle level budget the figure will have reached $12,500 by the end of this year.

She said that the top competitive position—grade 17, that of a clinical psychologist in Ulster County is "receiving less than the rate for sanitation workers in New York City."

Davis, who will make the presentation to the Legislature for the welfare workers, said that the $1,387 a year increase for those presently earning less than $5,000 is a 38.4 per cent increase. He wants the same $1,387 increase for all.

Ms. Miller said she hopes "the public will support us in our reasonable goals." She predicts a large turnout of employees at the hearing.

Dutchess Youth Charged in Sister's Death

MILLERTON A Dutchess County teenager has been charged with second degree manslaughter following the shooting death of his 15-year-old sister outside their Millerton home Sunday afternoon.

Police have not identified the boy because of his age. He is 16 years old.

His sister, 15-year-old Marjorie Moore, was pronounced dead on arrival at Sharon (Conn.) Hospital at 3:25 p.m. Sunday.

The Dutchess County Sheriff's Department, which is conducting the investigation, said its probe into the shooting is continuing. A spokesman for the Sheriff's Department said the facts surrounding the incident "are still very vague."

Initial reports stated the shooting was accidental; that the loaded shotgun accidentally discharged while the youth and his sister were in the backyard of their home in Millerton.

Police today, however, would not confirm those reports. It was stated only that the teenage girl was shot once in the right shoulder and back by bird-shot from the 20-gauge shotgun.

Deputies said the gun was owned by the unidentified brother.

The shooting, said deputies, occurred at about 3 p.m. Sunday. An older brother, whose name was not released, was also at home at the time, and he immediately called for help after the shooting.

The injured girl was rushed to the hospital in Sharon, Conn., about six miles from Millerton, where he pleaded innocent to the charge. He was committed to the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail, and ordered to reappear for preliminary hearing on Friday.

Police said the parents of the children were not at home when the shooting took place. The family resides at 10 Center Street in Millerton, a small village of 1,000 located some 25 miles west of Red Hook and just one mile from the Connecticut border.

Connecticut Medical Examiner Dr. G. S. Gudernatch has ordered that an autopsy be performed today to determine the exact cause of death.

Shortly after the girl died, Sheriff's Deputies arrested her brother and charged him with second degree manslaughter. He was arraigned before Millerton Justice Sanford Kaplan.

Several Charges In Thruway Arrest

KINGSTON Two men have been ordered held for grand jury action after their arrest Sunday by Thruway state police on multiple charges, including possession of a stolen 1974 Thunderbird.

Eric Nelson, 27, of Washington, D.C., was charged with criminal possession of stolen property (the car). He was also charged with being a fugitive from justice after an investigation revealed he was wanted on a felony warrant from Washington, D.C.

Hudson Halmon, 37, of Philadelphia, Pa., was charged with criminal possession of stolen property (the car) and possession of a loaded automatic pistol. Dennis Symott, 23, of New York City, was charged with possession of a hypodermic syringe.

The initial arrest was made by Trooper Donald Pitcher, who stopped the car Sunday at 2 p.m. about six miles north of Kingston in the southbound lane. He cited the occupants for driving with an open container of alcohol, and then discovered the revolver and narcotic instrument after subsequent investigation.

Sgt. Henry Ganss was later called to the scene, and his investigation revealed that the car had been stolen and that Nelson was a fugitive from justice.

The three were arraigned before Town of Ulster Justice Sherwood Davis. Nelson and Halmon were committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of bail and ordered held for the grand jury. The woman was fined $50, and then committed to jail when she couldn't pay the fine.

Christine Maloney Weds K. M. Kralovic

MRS. KEVIN M. KRALOVIC
(Shafer Studios)

Christine Ellen Maloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Maloney of 16 Dirks Lane, Kingston, became the bride of Kevin Matthew Kralovic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Kralovic of 101 Whitmore Avenue, Johnstown, on Saturday, Nov. 17 at St. Joseph's Church in Kingston. The Rev. James A. Steuer officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional princess-style gown fashioned with a wedding band collar and long sleeves. The gown featured a chapel length train and lace appliques. She carried a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Kathleen A. Otto of Kingston was matron of honor for her sister. Attendants were Miss Jessica A. Maloney of Kingston, sister of the bride; Mrs. Ann Panos of Albany; and Mrs. Eileen Crosse of Pennsylvania. Their gowns were styled with bodices of olive green velvet over ivory chiffon skirts with matching chiffon sleeves. The matron of honor carried a cascade bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The attendants carried bouquets of yellow and melon-colored daisies.

Michael Crosse of Pennsylvania was best man. Ushers were Mark Kralovic of Johnstown, brother of the bridegroom; James Maloney, brother of the bride, Kingston; and Mathew Miotla.

A reception was given at Kirkland Hotel in Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula, received a BA and MA degree in Special Education from College of St. Rose. She is employed at St. Patrick's School in Albany. Her husband, an alumnus of Bishop Burke High School, earned a BA degree from Oswego State University. He is presently completing a master's degree in Special Education at the College of St. Rose, and is employed at Rensselaer County Board of Cooperative Educational Services.

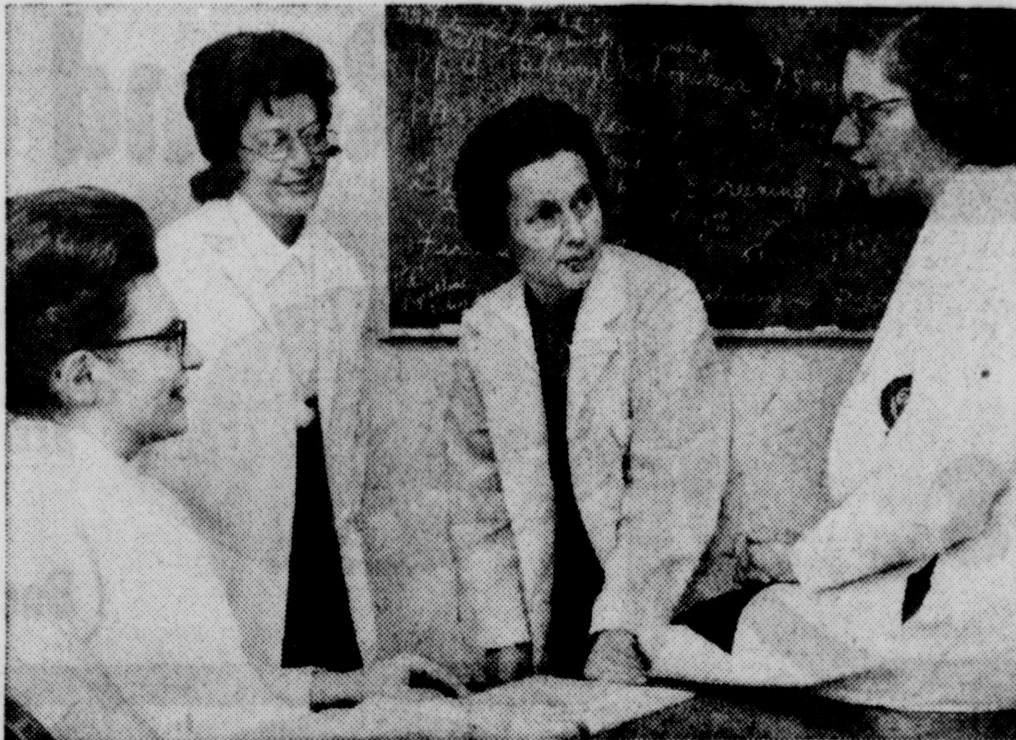

Mr. and Mrs. Kralovic will reside in Albany.

'What's the Story' When Four Women Doctors Get Together?

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Confounding the usual stereotypes of women in groups as frivolous or catty, four dynamic women doctors run the Birth Defects Center of Children's Hospital in Columbus, Ohio. And they all get along with each other harmoniously. They only regret that they can't get together more often to talk shop. But they're all too busy "minding" the shop to find much time to talk about it.

Dr. Antoinette Parisi Eaton is the director of the center which is supported by the March of Dimes. She is an expert on inborn metabolic disorders. In 1966 she started a special program for parents of children with phenylketonuria (PKU) an inherited enzyme deficiency. A petite five feet tall, she had to stand on a chair to reach the blackboard recently so she could explain to a visitor how a well-managed diet can prevent mental retardation in youngsters.

Then there is Stella B. Kontras, M.D., professor of pediatrics at Ohio State University. She is enthusiastic about the new technique of chromosome identification used in the Genetics Division of the hospital and conducts workshops in genetic counseling and has authored several articles on the subject.

Pediatrician Elizabeth S. Ruppert, M.D. is in charge of the Communications Disorders Center. She developed a special interest in hearing disabilities when she discovered her own daughter was deaf because she herself had contracted rubella (German measles) when she was pregnant. She is now doing followup studies on 80 congenital rubella children from the 1964 epidemic and is working with parents on teaching hard-of-hearing youngsters to speak.

Not only do the doctors relate warmly to every child who enters the Birth Defects Clinic, but they each have four children of their own, husbands and even pets to take care of. Dr. Kontras, who is also married, still finds time to travel to medical conferences to accept speaking engagements. Dr. Sommer, who is single, owns a 17-acre farm on the Ohio River, does her own planting, operates a tractor and loves fishing.

A heavy schedule? These women don't find it so. "The work itself is so rewarding, preventing birth defects," Dr. Eaton said. "I never feel fatigued. I think being tired comes more from boredom than from being busy."

"And then," Dr. Kontras added with a smile, "think of all the time we save by not having ego battles the way some men do."

You can often find each of the four doctors being trailed down the hall by a group of male admirers. Those are medical students and other health professionals who have come to get their training at Children's Hospital.

Dr. Sommer said she would like to see more women enter the health professions.

"I came to this country from Germany not even knowing any English," she said, "and I put myself through medical school. It's difficult but not that difficult," she added. "I look forward to the day when four women in charge of a hospital is no longer news." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Helpful Hints From Heloise

IT ALL BEGAN WITH THE STAMP ACT!

Dear Heloise: Many times I have meant to send you some of my bright ideas that I know others would appreciate. Here are a few that make bill paying time easier — if that's possible!

I always buy stamps by the book, and keep the stamp book in or near my address box. When I get a new stamp book, I hold all four pages together and tear the center perforation all the way to the cover of the book.

This makes it possible to remove the stamps very easily one at a time and yet they are still held together in the book until all are used. I find address labels are a great time-saver, not only as return addresses, but also on payment cards that have to be filled in each time.

If I have no addressed envelope to send a payment in, I just clip the return address from that creditor's envelope that the bill came in, and paste it on the new envelope.

Last, but not most important, I always pay my bills by mail whenever possible. The time and gasoline saved really add up to more than the postage will ever cost.

With the fuel shortage we are facing today, this will be even more important in the future.

Jovena Russell

HELLO SAM!

I read an article stating that when you breathe on plants, the carbon dioxide in your exhaled air helps them to grow, and this prompted me to write a poem to my plant, "Sam."

If I breathe on you, you walk away, saying, "Use a mouthwash." But, when I breathe on Sam, he grows — with pretty leaves of green.

Sam doesn't care if I eat garlic, limburger cheese or ham. I know when I get lonely — I can talk to my plant, "Sam."

Janice Williams

Dear Heloise:

I want to tell you my husband's clever idea. It might come in handy for you or one of your readers.

We have a portable color TV we keep on the bar that divides the kitchen and the den.

We found ourselves sitting on those uncomfortable kitchen chairs rather than go to all the trouble of turning the heavy TV around to face the den.

My husband bought one of those exercise twist boards for your feet and this did the trick — a perfect swivel base for our TV.

He placed a board (the size of the base of the TV) on top of the exercise board and then put the TV on that.

This made it possible for us to turn the TV to the kitchen or the den with barely a touch of the finger.

108th Birthday for Mrs. Margaret Law

Margaret Law is observing her 108th birthday.

Born in Rondout on Nov. 18, 1865, Mrs. Law lived in Catskill for about 40 years. She is now a resident of the Eden Nursing Home in Hudson.

Mrs. Law and her husband, Perry, now deceased, had nine children, five daughters and four sons. Five children are still living: Mrs. Johanna Kelley, Mrs. Delia Underhill, both of Saugerties; Thomas, with whom she resided for many years; Mrs. Margaret Picardi, Mrs. Rose Young all of Catskill. Mary, John, Harry and George Law are deceased.

Besides her children, Mrs. Law also has 29 grandchildren, 66 great grandchildren, 19 great great grandchildren, several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Law was born the same year that President Lincoln was shot and has seen 21 presidents take office since then. She has lived through four wars: Spanish American, World War I and II, and the Korean Conflict. She delivered many babies as a midwife in the town of Cementon. Up until the time she entered the nursing home, she did all her own housework, shopping and cleaning. She enjoyed the television soap operas and had a green thumb where houseplants were concerned. A pet cat named "Skippy" which lived to be 16 was her pride and joy.

The daughter of Michael and Mary Sullivan Mahoney, she had three sisters and a brother: Katie, Johanna, Mary and Daniel, all of whom passed away in their nineties. Mrs. Law always enjoyed having company. Even at the nursing home, Mrs. Law's first request when receiving visitors is to "please put on the tea and coffee."

Last Minute Ideas for Thanksgiving Day

PUMPKIN SOUFFLE

Housewives who pride themselves on cooking creativity are constantly on the alert for new and different recipes to surprise their family and friends. Here are a couple of festive dishes to serve along with traditional favorites.

Pumpkin Souffle

6 to 8 servings

2 cups enriched dry bread crumbs
One-third cup raisins
One-third cup sugar
One and one-half teaspoons cinnamon
One and one-half teaspoons ginger
One-half teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon cloves
Three cups milk
Six egg yolks, beaten
One cup pumpkin pie filling
Six egg whites

Stir together bread crumbs, raisins, sugar, spices and salt. Heat milk until bubbles form around edge of pan; blend one-fourth cup into egg yolks. Gradually add egg yolk mixture to remaining milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Remove from heat and mix in pie filling. Blend into bread crumb mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry peaks form. Fold into bread mixture. Pour into greased souffle dish (one and one-half qt.). Bake in pre heated 350 degree oven 50 to 55 minutes until golden brown and firm to touch. Serve immediately.

Southern Cornbread Stuffing

Enough stuffing for a 25 pound turkey

Four packages (eight ounce ea. Pepperidge Farm cornbread Stuffing
One cup butter or margarine
Two navel oranges, chopped, skin and all
One cup well drained crushed pineapple
One cup coarsely chopped pecans
One teaspoon nutmeg
Three cups orange juice
Salt

Pour stuffing into a large bowl. In a skillet heat butter and stir in oranges, pineapple, pecans, nutmeg and orange juice. Bring to a boil and pour over stuffing. Stir until well blended. Season to taste with salt. Just before turkey is ready to be roasted sprinkle it inside and out with salt and pepper. Stuff it at the neck and in the body cavity with stuffing mixture. Sew or skewer opening and roast in a shallow roasting pan in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 20 minutes to the pound.

Bus Trip Being Planned

Lomontville Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary will sponsor a bus trip to New York City on Saturday, Dec. 1 to attend the 11 a.m. show at Radio City Music Hall. The bus will leave Lomontville Firehouse at 7:30 a.m. and return at 7:30 p.m. The donation includes transportation and admission to the Music Hall. Interested persons should contact Eva Clemons of Kingston.

The Auxiliary extends appreciation to all who contributed to the successful Election Day cake sale.

Thanksgiving Briefs

EARLY ARRIVAL: Thanksgiving Day is an early bird this year, falling on Nov. 22. Not since 1962 has this national holiday come so early. Although Thanksgiving is observed on the fourth Thursday in November, researchers for Hallmark Cards say it can span the dates between Nov. 22 and 28. Next year the turkey won't strut until Nov. 28.

TURKEY TOMFOOLERY: Consider that noble bird, the turkey. Ornithologists call it "meleagris gallopavo." American families call it "Thanksgiving dinner." And writers of contemporary greeting cards make it the victim of endless quips and gags at this season. "Why does a turkey cross the road?" asks a current card. The answer: "To get to Mexico, where they don't celebrate Thanksgiving." Another shows a cheerful turkey flapping its wings together. "Clap! Clap! Clap!" says the bird. "Let's hear it for frozen TV dinners!" A Thanksgiving Day card designed like a refrigerator shows a sad-looking gobbler sitting inside. "Who were you expecting?"

the turkey asks. "Betty Furness?"

DIFFERENT CUSTOMS: Not everybody celebrates Thanksgiving Day on the fourth Thursday in November. According to researcher Sally Hopkins, it's observed in Canada on the second Monday in October. And in southeastern Pennsylvania, members of the Schwenkfelder religious sect celebrate Thanksgiving on Sept. 24, as they have since 1734. The Schwenkfelders, whose ancestors fled religious persecution in Germany to settle in the Pennsylvania Dutch country, traditionally commemorate the day with bread, water and apple butter.

EELS, NOT TURKEY: The Pilgrims served no turkey, cranberry sauce or pumpkin pie at the first Thanksgiving meal in Plymouth in 1621. According to Sally Hopkins, these items were available at the time, but only became part of the Thanksgiving tradition in later years. What was served at that first feast? Venison, duck, goose, seafood, eels, white and corn bread, leeks, watercress, wild plums, dried berries and wine.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How does one discourage someone (a relative) from sending cookies, cakes, homemade preserves, and other goodies on any and all occasions? (Especially Thanksgiving and Christmas.)

This person is a dear and generous soul, but her kitchen is far from clean, she has a houseful of small dogs running around, and her place smells like a kennel. I know she spends a lot of time and energy (not to mention the cost of the ingredients) on these things, we just throw them out. I suppose it wouldn't kill us to eat these gifts, but I get a mental picture of that filthy kitchen and all those dogs licking the cookie dough off her fingers, and that does it. Any suggestions?

WEAK STOMACH IN W. VA.

DEAR WEAK: You could tell her you're counting your calories (isn't everybody?) and to please help you resist temptation by ceasing and desisting.

DEAR ABBY: We are the parents of six adult children. When our youngest was a senior in college we moved to a retirement community, hoping to make a new life for ourselves. Our two youngest moved in with us—temporarily, they said. That was two years ago, and they are still with us.

We couldn't afford a very large place, so we are very crowded. Not only that, but we still don't have the leisure life I had looked forward to. Abby, how do you tell grown children to get out on their own? I would like to set a specific date—like next Monday.

My husband doesn't have the courage to tell the boys to leave, but he feels the same as I. What's the answer? How do other parents handle this delicate situation? Perhaps I should mention these boys are nonpaying guests.

GOOD OLD MOM DEAR MOM: Say, "John and Jim" (unless, of course, their names are Bob and Tom). "It's time you left the nest, so spread your wings and take off."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SO IN LOVE IN GAINSVILLE": Whether he is married or not is besides the point. He said he was, which means he wants to end the romantic involvement with you.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Legal Secretaries Party Slated

Michelle Schwertfeger, program chairman, has announced that Ulster County Legal Secretaries Association's annual Christmas dinner and party will be held at Holiday Inn, Wednesday, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m. Members are requested to bring home baked food or handmade articles for a gift exchange.

At the November meeting in Dutch Rathskeller, members donated gifts to be presented to the patients at Ulster County Infirmary for Christmas. Frances Lysy was inducted into the Association. Sue Simon and Linda Svirsky conducted a jewelry show of "Rings and Things." Guests included Norma Carpino, Kay Miller, Marilyn Markle and Sheryl Robinson. President Karen Bitonte presided at the meeting.

UCCC Alumni Dinner Meeting Scheduled

The Ulster County Community College Alumni Association will hold a dinner-meeting at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 29, at the Stockade Restaurant in Kingston, according to President Keith Jordan.

"We've made considerable strides in forming an active Alumni Association in only a few short months," said Jordan, "and this dinner meeting will be another first for the organization."

He said all college alumni are invited to attend the dinner at the Stockade

Restaurant, where an open menu will be available. Alumni are considered to be anyone who has attended the College.

Jordan says advance reservations already indicate there will be a good turnout at this event, which will have only a short business meeting.

Any alumni interested in attending should call Jordan; Mrs. Mary Ann Park, the association's corresponding secretary, both of Kingston; or the Alumni Office at the College to make advance reservations which are required.

Broncos and Browns Churn Up AFC Race

BY JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The Denver Broncos, the Cleveland Browns and a controversial official's call have combined to set up one heckuva race in the American Conference.

The Broncos, the only American Conference club which has never participated in post-season play, moved into solid contention for a playoff slot Sunday as they upset the Pittsburgh Steelers 23-13.

Pittsburgh's loss, combined with Cleveland's stunning 7-3 upset of the Oakland Raiders and Cincinnati's hairbreadth 20-14 victory over the New York Jets when an official disallowed two apparent Joe Namath touchdown passes in the final minute, set up a hectic final month in the AFC Central as three clubs are within two games of first.

With the score tied 13-13, Jim Turner kicked a 46-yard field goal which bounced over the crossbar to give Denver a 16-13 lead and Charley Johnson sealed the win when he threw two yards to tight end Riley Odoms late in the game. Floyd Little also had a 10-yard TD run for the Broncos, now unbeaten in their last six games, while Terry Hanratty provided the lone Steeler TD with a 42-yard pass to Ron Shanklin.

"We caught Pittsburgh at the right time and that gives us more momentum to face our next two opponents," Denver

Coach John Ralston said. "Pittsburgh had three tough opponents in a row and their grudge battle with Oakland last week had taken something away from them."

Maurice Tyler recovered two fumbles for Denver to set up Turner's 32-yard field goal and Johnson's TD pass.

Mike Phipps threw a seven-yard TD pass to Fair Hooker early in the second quarter and Cleveland's defense made it stand up against the Raiders. The victory left the Browns 1 1/2 games behind Pittsburgh and knocked the Raiders out of a first-place tie with Kansas City to third in the AFC West behind Denver.

"We caught them in a blitz on what I guess looked to them like a running play," Phipps explained. "That left Hooker one-on-one with Willie Brown and Fair beat his man."

"What beat us is that we couldn't get field position," said Raider Coach John Madden. "We didn't make many mistakes but penalties kept us in the hole. Things have really turned around for us. Two weeks ago we led our division by a game and now we're in third place. But the situation isn't hopeless and we still have to play the two teams ahead of us."

Elsewhere, Kansas City bombed Houston 38-14, Miami shut out Buffalo 17-0, Dallas ripped Philadelphia 31-10, Washington downed Baltimore 22-14, Los Angeles whipped San Francisco 31-13, New England stunned Green Bay 33-24, the New York Giants overcame St. Louis 24-13, San Diego edged New Orleans 17-14 and Detroit trounced Chicago 30-7. Minnesota is at Atlanta tonight.

Mike Livingston passed for two TDs and ran for another as the Chiefs took sole possession of first in the AFC West by routing Houston. Livingston had TD passes of five yards to Gary Butler and 24 to Otis Taylor and ran three yards for another as the Chiefs enjoyed their best offensive output of the year. Lynn Dickey had a 62-yard TD pass to Bob Gresham for Houston, now 1-9.

Miami, with Larry Csonka plunging for one TD and Paul Warfield catching an 18-yard

TD pass from Bob Griese, wrapped up its third straight AFC title by stopping Buffalo. O.J. Simpson had 120 yards for the Bills in his quest for a single season rushing record.

Roger Staubach had TD passes of 28 yards to Bob Hayes and two to Walt Garrison and ran a yard for another TD as the Cowboys downed Philadelphia. Roman Gabriel's 80-yard pass to Charles Young accounted for the lone Eagle TD.

Curt Knight's five field goals and a one-yard TD run by Larry Brown helped Washington beat the Colts for the first time since 1959 and John Hadl threw TD passes of 25, 22 and 57 yards to Harold Jackson as the Rams clubbed the 49ers for the seventh straight time.

Jim Plunkett threw a 63-yard TD pass to Reggie Rucker and a 28-yarder to Bob Windsor and ran a yard for another score as the Patriots rallied for 24 points in the second half to upset Green Bay. Norm Snead's 45-yard TD pass to Ron Johnson helped the Giants beat St. Louis and end a seven-game losing streak. Rookie Gary Keithley, replacing the injured Jim Hart, had an 80-yard TD pass to Mel Gray for St. Louis.

Rookie Dick Jauron returned an interception 95 yards for a TD to spark the Lions over Chicago and Ron Smith's 84-yard punt return lifted San Diego past New Orleans for Charger Coach Ron Waller's first victory.

Bitter Namath and Weeb Blast Those Calls

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The scoreboard read: Cincinnati 20, New York 14. But Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown saw it differently in the locker room.

"If some of you fellows see Wilbur (Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank), tell him I thought we were lucky," said Brown, referring to his former college teammate and coaching aide.

The Bengals had just survived the sensational last-bid heroics of still-healing Jets quarterback Joe Namath for a 20-14 National Football League victory Sunday.

"I'm glad we won," said Brown. "But you're supposed to feel good after you win."

Namath, pro football's premier passer, had overcome the rust of eight weeks of idleness from a separated shoulder to move the Jets 79 yards to Cincinnati's one with seconds remaining.

He had entered the game with 4:40 remaining when starting quarterback Al Woodall was dazed by a tackle. It was up to the tender-winged Namath.

"It was sudden death for us," said Ewbank. "We had to move the ball."

Ewbank chased the officials across the field after the game but never caught up with them. He was critical of the two disputed calls—one of which ruled Caster out of bounds in the end zone and the other on Namath's final completion to Caster which was ruled at the one instead of a TD.

"Richard was in twice," Ewbank fumed in high dudgeon after the game. Caster agreed, but added, "the man said no and that's that."

"So close, so close," Namath screamed. "You get so close only to lose."

Namath hit three straight passes of 21, 16 and 31 yards to put the Jets on Cincinnati's 11. Then he went for the touchdown, a well-aimed pass to angling tight end Richard Caster.

The big receiver stabbed the ball and skidded out of bounds. The officials ruled he didn't have both feet in bounds.

Two more passes failed until, on fourth down, Namath hit Caster over the middle at the goal line.

"His feet were in the end zone but he was pushed out," claimed Namath, bitter at the calls.

With the ball spotted at the one and the clock running with 12 seconds left, reserve running back Cliff McClain unsuccessfully tried to crack the Bengals defensive wall.

He cut down short of the goal and time ran out before he could get off another play.

BACK IN ACTION — Joe Namath, back in action for the final minutes of the Jets' game with Cincinnati Sunday, fires a completion to get the Jets moving. Namath started a drive that put New York inside the Bengals' one-foot line but failed to score when the clock ran out. Cincinnati won, 20-14. (UPI)

That Solid Second Half Turned Tide for Giants

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — On the first play of the fourth quarter, Ron Johnson grabbed a 10-yard slant-in pass with a bunch of Giant teammates and fading daylight ahead of him.

He blazed 35 more yards for the touchdown that broke the back of the St. Louis Cardinals and New York's seven-game National Football League losing streak.

"From what I saw in front of me, I knew I'd go all the way," Johnson said after the Giants put together a solid second-half performance to catch up and beat their National Football Conference East rivals Sunday 24-13.

Cardinal Coach Don Corvett said his linebackers were blitzing on the play, allowing Johnson to shake loose over the middle.

Johnson, who led all rushers with 91 yards in 24 carries, said he had only one worry as he raced up the middle for the score that put New York on top for the first time, 17-10. He said Giant receiver Bob Grim had his back turned to him and he was afraid Grim might block rookie defensive back Dwayne Crump into his patch.

But on that play and others, Johnson said, "I do well when everybody does well."

New York Coach Alex Webster, smiling despite a 2-7-1 record and the bottom spot in the division, said "as the game proceeded I thought we played the best offense we have all year."

But, he added, "we started very slowly, offense and defense."

Norm Snead, who took over at quarterback at the end of the first quarter after Randy Johnson suffered a concussion, sparked the offense, completing 14 of 20 throws for 192 yards.

"I don't like anybody to get hurt," said Snead, who lost his job earlier in the season to Johnson. But he was glad to be back. "I like to play and I had fun," he said.

St. Louis, now 3-6-1, scored first when Jim Bakken kicked a 29-yard field goal with 12:08 gone in the first quarter. Pete Gogolak evened the game with a 16-yarder midway through the second quarter.

Then 23 seconds later Mel Gray, who burned the Giants with three touchdowns catches three weeks ago in a 35-27 Cardinal victory, caught a 15-yard pass from Gary Keithley, replacing Jim Hart who left the game early with a side injury.

Gray put a magnificent move on linebacker Pat Hughes and romped for an 80-yard touchdown that gave St. Louis a 10-3 halftime edge.

Tonight's NFL Crucial

Foreman, Malone Set

ATLANTA (UPI) — Chuck Foreman and Art Malone are both expected to return to action tonight when the Atlanta Falcons host the unbeaten Minnesota Vikings in the NFL's Monday night game.

Foreman, the rookie from Miami (Fla.) who leads the Vikings in rushing despite missing the past two games with a knee injury, insists he's "ready to go" tonight. Malone, the Falcons' inside bread-and-butter man who also has been out two weeks, also is reported "fit."

Atlanta (6-3), seeking its sixth straight victory, needs Malone at his best because the Falcons have lost one and maybe both of its wide receivers. Ken Burrow, who will undergo neck surgery, is definitely out and Al Dodd, who suffered a leg injury at Philadelphia last week, is "doubtful."

This may mean that Atlanta will have to go with rookies Tom Gerredine and Louis Neal as wide receivers and that means the Falcons will need all the running they can muster.

The Vikings (9-0) have to be favored, with or without Foreman. After all, they haven't been beaten this year, in exhibition or regular season, and you can't argue with success. They have appeared exceptionally strong their last two games—beating Cleveland 26-3 and Detroit 28-7.

Minnesota has a balanced offense. Quarterback Fran Tarkenton has passed for 1,456 yards and 10 touchdowns and the Vikings have a half dozen proven runners.

Atlanta depends more on its running game and that means Malone and Dave Hampton, No. 3 rusher in the NFC with 642 yards, must be at top form if the Falcons are to move the ball.

The oft-told quarterback situation regarding these two teams is worth repeating. Tarkenton played for six years under Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin when Van Brocklin coached the Vikings. Bob Lee, the Falcons' quarterback, was Tarkenton's backup man last season and Bob Berry, Tarkenton's current understudy, was Atlanta's starting quarterback the past several seasons.

Atlanta defensive end John Zook said films indicate that Tarkenton is no longer the "scrambler" who used to upset Van Brocklin.

"He doesn't appear to run as much as in the past and seems to like to go with the short game," said Zook. "It's improved the Vikings' running game that may be the best we've faced all season."

People agree the best is "C.C."

Men and women with a taste for the best never say "Canadian" without saying "Club." Because they won't settle for less than the unique taste that distinguishes it from all other whiskeys. A taste that never stops pleasing. In short ones before dinner, tall ones after—Canadian Club is perfect company all evening long. So discover C.C. tonight. Lifetime friends are rare.

Motta Knows Why Bulls Are Rolling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls have won 14 ballgames in 18 attempts this season and Coach Dick Motta thinks he knows why. "Maybe we just have more desire than some of the other teams," said the fiery Motta. "We play very hard, we dive for loose balls, we just have more desire."

Motta's Bulls have won more than their share of squeakers this National Basketball Association season and they pulled another one out Sunday night, edging the improving Detroit Pistons 104-102. Veteran guard Norm Van Lier sank a 20-foot jump shot with just three seconds left to give Chicago its winning margin.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Buffalo Braves beat the Capital Bullets 112-101, the Los Angeles Lakers downed the Cleveland Cavaliers 102-100 and the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 95-91.

The Utah Stars shaded the San Antonio Spurs 83-80 in the only American Basketball Association contest played.

Chet Walker led the Bulls' attack with 22 points, Jerry Sloan had 24 and Bob Love added 21. Bob Lanier, whose two free throws with 20 seconds left gave Detroit its last lead of the night, topped the Pistons with 27 points.

The Bulls are off to a fast start but still trail Milwaukee, off to an even faster start, by one game in the Midwest Division. The Bulls are 15-3.

Braves 112, Bullets 101
Buffalo center Bob McAdoo broke the game open with 10 points in the first six minutes of the second half. He wound up with 43 points and 17 rebounds. The loss dropped the Bullets a half-game behind first-place Atlanta in the Central Division.

Lakers 102, Cavaliers 100
Los Angeles, still without injured All-Star guard Jerry West, outscored the young Cavs stretch won it for Utah. Wise 11-2 in the waning moments of the fourth quarter to pull it out. Stars topped San Antonio for Gail Goodrich pumped in 30 points and Happy Hairston collected 26 rebounds for the Lakers who won their third game in as many nights.

Sonics 95, Sixers 91
Fred Brown sank a basket and a pair of foul shots in the final 38 seconds to give Seattle its winning margin. Brown wound up with 22 points while teammate Spencer Haywood led all scorers with 31.

Aussies Ready For U.S. Team

MELBOURNE (UPI) — The Australian Davis cup team put the "USA" labels on its luggage today as it readied for yet another Davis Cup clash with the United States.

Australian team captain Neal Fraser, bursting with confidence after his team's fighting, 4-1 semi-final win over Czechoslovakia over the weekend, called on U.S. tennis officials to field anyone they like in their cup lineup.

The results of the semi-finals which put the Aussies aboard Tuesday's plane for Cleveland were:

Rod Laver beat Jan Kodes 6-3, 7-5, 7-5; Jiri Hrebec beat John Newcombe 6-4, 8-10, 6-4, 7-5.

Second day doubles: Ken Rosewall-Rod Laver beat Vladimir Zednik-Jan Kodes, 6-4, 14-12, 7-9, 8-6.

Third day singles: Rod Laver beat Jiri Hrebec 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4; John Newcombe beat Jan Kodes 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

HEIGHT ADVANTAGE—Being a foot taller has its advantages as Elmore Smith (3) of the Los Angeles Lakers easily bats away a layup by Lenny Wilkens (19) of Cleveland in the first quarter in Los Angeles Sunday night. The Lakers whipped the Cavs, 102-100. (UPI)

Griffith Explains His Snub of Mundine

PARIS (UPI) — Tony Mundine of Australia and New Yorker Emile Griffith have been living in the same luxury hotel for a week but they will meet for the first time today, a few hours before their much-awaited middleweight boxing match.

The two ranking boxers will meet for the first time for the weigh-in for their 4:30 p.m. EDT 12 round non-title fight. Asked why he has not gone up to Mundine's flat to exchange greetings, the veteran U.S. slugger—who will be 36 years old next February—grinned and told newsmen: "I am staying on the third floor. Going up to the sixth floor would tire me too much."

Boxing experts were split as to who would win the match, which will be followed Dec. 8 here by a middleweight title bout between world champion Carlos Monzon of Argentina and Mexican challenger Jose Napoles. If the 23 year-old Mundine wins tonight, he's expected to meet Benny

Pro Sports At Low Ebb

By FRED DOWN

UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Notes, quotes and anecdotes:

Pro football and hockey fans are showing signs of discontent over the calibre of play in the National Football League and the National Hockey League even in the midst of the current sports boom.

NFL fans are disgruntled over the number of point-blank field goals which are being kicked. It isn't so much the field goals themselves that bother the fans. It's the conservative plays leading up to the anti-climactic three-pointer which mean that the game is at its dulllest when it should be at its most exciting.

Hockey fans have a more serious gripe. They're saying that many of the high-priced stars in the National Hockey League aren't going all out; not giving their top effort while they are on the ice. It goes without saying that the World Hockey Association is being blamed for the state of affairs.

Oakland A's third baseman and captain Sal Bando is leading the cheers for the selection of teammate Reggie Jackson as the American League's most valuable player. "You have to play on the same team day after day with Reggie to realize what fantastic talent he has," says Bando. Incidentally, Jackson, Bando, Gene Tenace and Rollie Fingers are all finding the off-season lull is beginning to come their way this winter in the form of speeches, endorsements, etc.

Oakland players made very little during the winter after they won their first world championship in 1972.

A few guys were sitting around the other night arguing about which current player has the best chance to equal or surpass Hank Aaron's ultimate career home run total. The general consensus was Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds and here's how good his chances are:

Should Johnny continue his current pace of 179 homers in seven seasons he would have to play until he is 48 years old—and maintain or improve on that pace.

Most players concede that Tom Seaver of the Mets is the best pitcher in the National League but many insist that he wouldn't have won the Cy Young Award with a 19-10 record (as opposed to 24-12 mark by San Francisco's Ron Bryant) except that he plays in New York City. "From a publicity standpoint," says Manager Chuck Tanner of the Chicago White Sox, "New York is the only place to play."

Newly-acquired Clay Kirby is ecstatic about the prospects of pitching for the hard-hitting Reds after spending five seasons with the San Diego Padres.

"All I know about their plans is that they want me to start," says the 25-year-old right-hander. "I don't care whether they have a four or five-day rotation. I can't wait to see those runs go up on the scoreboard—and know they're mine."

Managers of Ron Lyle, the former Denver convict whose rapid rise to the ranks of heavyweight contenders was sidetracked by Jerry Quarry almost a year ago, think the big fellow will get one last shot at the big money. Ron mysteriously lost his punch for a while after the Quarry fight. Just what role Willie Mays will play for the Mets still seems undecided. Willie wants to do promotional work and says, "I still think 90 per cent of my time belongs to the fans and only 10 per cent to me and my family."

Bowl Picture Was Predictable

By FRED McMANE

The overall bowl picture turned out to be predictable, but there is still some mystery left as the college football season enters its final big week. Seven of the 11 major college post-season bowls were filled Saturday and not one of the teams named came as any surprise. The results of the pairings were known well before the NCAA's official announcements went out, and the various bowl committees went right along with their original choices.

Four of the teams named to post-season competition — Kansas, Tennessee, Missouri and Auburn — were beaten Saturday, but that didn't matter. They all knew in advance that no matter what the outcome of their games they would still be invited.

The Liberty, Astro-Bluebonnet, Gator, Sun, Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowls all were filled Saturday, leaving the Fiesta, Tangerine, Peach and Rose Bowls still searching for opponents.

Only the Peach Bowl committee showed real concern about having a winner on Saturday. Arkansas had been promised a bid to the Peach Bowl if it beat Southern Methodist, but the best the Razorbacks could do was a 7-7 tie and the backers of the bowl said "no thanks."

The Peach Bowl committee, in fact, is willing to wait until next weekend to find a suitable opponent for Maryland, which was named Saturday after beating Clemson. The committee has given Georgia the same ultimatum it gave Arkansas. "beat Georgia Tech next Saturday and you're in. Lose and we'll find someone else."

The other three bowls also will be filled this week. Pittsburgh was named Saturday to the Fiesta Bowl on Dec. 21 at Tempe, Ariz., and the Panthers' host will be the winner of Saturday's game between Arizona State and Arizona, which will decide the Western Athletic Conference.

Miami of Ohio, winner of the Mid-American Conference and boasting a perfect 10-0 record, gets an official invite to the Tangerine Bowl today and the Redskins' opponent for the Dec. 22 contest at Orlando, Fla., will probably be East Carolina.

However, the Pirates are not considered a shoo-in for the berth and they have stated that unless they get a bid by tonight they are going to tell the committee to forget it. Temple is also being considered.

Both spots in the Rose Bowl are currently open, but they automatically go to the winners of the Big Ten and the Pacific Eight conferences. Those two titles will be decided Saturday when top-ranked Ohio State meets fourth-ranked Michigan for the Big Ten crown and eighth-ranked UCLA takes on ninth-ranked Southern California for the Pac Eight championship.

The other bowl pairings are: Cotton-Texas vs. Nebraska; Sugar Bowl, New Orleans-Alabama (9-0) vs. Notre Dame (8-0).

Jan. 1 Cotton Bowl, Dallas-Texas (7-8) vs. Nebraska (8-1); Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Calif.—Ohio State (9-0) or Michigan (10-0) vs. UCLA (9-1) or Southern California (8-1-1).

Orange Bowl, Miami-Penn State (10-0) vs. LSU (9-0); Sugar Bowl, New Orleans-Alabama (9-0) vs. Notre Dame (8-0).

Jan. 1 Cotton Bowl, Dallas-Texas (7-8) vs. Nebraska (8-1); Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Calif.—Ohio State (9-0) or Michigan (10-0) vs. UCLA (9-1) or Southern California (8-1-1).

Orange Bowl, Miami-Penn State (10-0) vs. LSU (9-0); Sugar Bowl, New Orleans-Alabama (9-0) vs. Notre Dame (8-0).

Sugar — Alabama vs. Notre Dame; Orange—Penn State vs. LSU; Gator—Tennessee vs. Texas Tech; Liberty—North Carolina State vs. Kansas; Astro-Bluebonnet — Houston vs. Tulane; and Sun—Missouri vs. Auburn.

In addition to deciding the remaining bowl participants, this week's key games could decide the UPI national championship and help settle the confusion surrounding the Heisman Trophy voting.

Ohio State, which walloped Iowa, 55-13, on Saturday, can wrap up the UPI Board of Coaches national championship with a victory over Michigan. However, should the Buckeyes lose and second-ranked Alabama defeat seventh-ranked LSU, then the national title will be up for grabs and would not be decided until Alabama meets Auburn on Dec. 1.

There is no clear-cut favorite in this year's Heisman Trophy balloting, but the leading candidates appear to be Ohio State sophomore Archie Griffin, Texas junior Roosevelt Leaks, Penn State senior John Cappelletti and Pittsburgh freshman Tony Dorsett. All are running backs.

All enjoyed good days Saturday and all face some tough competition Saturday which could help settle the issue. Griffin, who gained 246 yards against Iowa, goes against Michigan's rugged defense Saturday while Leaks, who picked up 105 yards in a 52-7 rout of TCU, faces Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day.

Cappelletti and Dorsett will be opposing each other Saturday as Penn State hosts Pittsburgh. Cappelletti gained

Barber's Mark Will Endure

PINEHURST, N. C. (UPI) — Chunky, balding Miller Barber, the "Mr. X" of pro golf for years, has finally put a record on the ledger that's likely to stand a long, long time.

Barber's record is pocketing the biggest chunk of money—$100,000—that any golfer ever won for a single event. Ironically, the record will stand because the marathon eight-round format that brought him the money has been crossed off as a failure.

This year, the World Open Golf Championship lasted 144 holes and had a purse of $500,000. Next year, plans call for a standard 72 holes and a purse of about $300,000, with $75,000 going to the victor, still the richest event on the tour.

If this year's tourney, which wound up Saturday, had gone only 72 holes, Gibby Gilbert would be the man putting $100,000 in the bank today instead of Barber. But Gilbert finished in a five-way tie for 15th place after 144 holes, good for only $5,812. If it had ended after six rounds, as some have suggested, young tour sophomore Tom Watson would have the $100,000, but he wound up in a tie for fourth with $17,000.

Barber would have been seventh if the tourney ended at 72 holes, a solid finish such as he's had time after time in 16 years on the PGA tour but nowhere near the money and the glamour associated with copping golf's richest prize. The eight-round format was designed to show the best golfer over the long haul and it may have done that.

"Miller is one of the most underrated players on the tour," said Leonard Thompson after the tournament in which he finished third behind Barber and rookie Ben Crenshaw. "He played good, solid golf—he always does—and deserved to win," said Crenshaw, who at 21 is half Barber's age.

Barber was more modest. "I'm no Jack Nicklaus yet," he quipped as he walked into the press room after the victory.

"I just tried to whip the golf course," he said. "If you do that, you beat a lot of people."

The people he beat included most of the big names in golf, with the notable exceptions of Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf, whose decisions not to play in this year's event at Pinehurst Country Club were likely a major factor in the change of format—and change of dates from chilly November to warm September—for next year.

Esposito Could Play Every Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Phil Esposito says he could play every day the way things are going. And why not?

Esposito's Boston Bruins defeated Atlanta 5-2 Sunday for their sixth straight victory and Esposito scored his 21st goal and added two assists to run his National Hockey point total to 43 in 19 games.

"We're skating now and we weren't earlier in the year," I'd like to go going. I'd rather play every night than practice," Esposito said of the Bruins' layoff until Thursday.

In other NHL games Sunday, the New York Rangers blanked Pittsburgh 7-0, Detroit skated past Montreal 6-4, and California shut out Buffalo 2-0.

In the World Hockey Association, Vancouver beat Cleveland 8-2, New York defeated Cleveland 5-3, Toronto beat Winnipeg 6-2, and Quebec ripped Houston 8-3, Minnesota downed Edmonton 5-2, and New England beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Red Wings 6, Canadiens 4. Nick Libett, Ace Bailey and Billy Collins each scored two goals as Detroit skated to a 6-4 victory over the Montreal Canadiens.

It was the fourth triumph in five games for Detroit since Alex Delvecchio became coach. Rangers 7, Penguins 0. It was Ed Giacomin who got the credit for the Rangers 7-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

Double Ace
CANTON, Mass. (AP) — Two golfers at Ponkapoag's No. 2 course scored holes in one Sunday on the same hole — the par 3, 125-yard 15th — and each used a pitching wedge, according to club pro Ken Campbell.

He said the first to ace the hole was Tom Jones of Weymouth, Mass. Alex McLeish of Dedham, Mass., who was in the following foursome, turned the same trick.

"We get a few holes in one on the course every year," Campbell said, "but this was a bit unusual because last week two Boston firemen in consecutive foursomes did the same thing on the par 3 11th hole."

"Despite the one-sided score, the difference was Giacomin," concluded New York Coach Larry Popein.

Giacomin recorded his 46th career shutout and each of the Jean Ratelle-Vic Hatfield-Rod Gilbert line got a goal to help the Ranger cause.

Golden Seals 2, Sabres 0
Goalie Gilles Meloche had 27 saves and Ivan Boldirev and Hilliard Graves scored the goals to give California a 2-0 victory over Buffalo.

The victory was the Golden Seals' first on the road after seven defeats and the first shutout of the season for Meloche.

Blades Come Alive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Golden Blades, on the verge of eviction from Madison Square Garden, gave the home fans something to remember them by Sunday — an impressive 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cougars.

Mike Laughton's breakaway goal at 5:39 of the final period broke a 3-3 tie and sent the Blades home on top. Brian Perry added an insurance goal into an open net late in the final period for New York.

In other WHA games, the Vancouver Blazers whipped the Cleveland Crusaders 8-2, the Toronto Toros trimmed the Winnipeg Jets 6-2, the Quebec Nordiques ripped the Houston Aeros 8-2, the Minnesota Fighting Saints downed the Edmonton Oilers 5-2 and the New England Whalers topped the Los Angeles Sharks 5-2.

In National Hockey League action, the Detroit Red Wings defeated the Montreal Canadiens 6-4, the New York Rangers rocked the Pittsburgh Penguins 7-0, the Boston Bruins downed the Atlanta Flames 5-2 and the California Golden Seals blanked the Buffalo Sabres 2-0.

It was only the sixth victory for New York in 20 outings this year but that's good compared to its record off the ice. The Blades have been having financial problems all year and at present they are being threatened with eviction by the Garden unless they come up with $8,000 by Tuesday.

Blazers 8, Crusaders 2
Bryan Campbell scored twice as Vancouver won its third straight game. The Blazers, who have turned around after setting a WHA record with 10 consecutive losses, scored five times in the third period.

Toros 6, Jets 2
Toronto came from a 2-0 first-period deficit to post its sixth win. Guy Trottier collected two goals for the winners. The loss dropped the Jets below .500 for the year.

Nordiques 8, Aeros 3
Robert Guindon scored a goal in each period for Quebec, playing before the biggest home crowd in its history — 10,599 fans. Guindon has nine goals on the year.

Saints 5, Oilers 2
Steve Cardwell scored two goals for Minnesota in the penalty-filled contest. There were 12 major penalties called in the game and the first period ended in a general free-for-all when Edmonton goalie Chris Worthy skated out of his net and thumped Minnesota's Mike Walton on the head with his stick.

Whalers 5, Sharks 2
Tom Webster picked up his 14th goal of the season for New England which leads the East Division by two points over Quebec. It was the fourth straight loss for the Sharks and dropped them into last place in the West.

Cappelletti Displayed Heisman Credentials

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — John Cappelletti is Penn State's third Heisman Trophy candidate in as many years, and Saturday he showed the reason why.

His credentials against Ohio University: —Four first half touchdowns (the second straight week).

—Over 200 yards rushing in less than 30 minutes of play (his second consecutive 200-yard game and third of the season).

—A performance which raised his season rushing total to 1,361 yards and 16 touchdowns, and made him Penn State's second all-time rusher with 2,478 career yards.

Like tailback Lydell Mitchell in 1971 and quarterback John Huftnagel in 1972, Cappelletti probably will be passed over in the award selection because Penn State plays teams like Ohio, the reasoning being that he would not perform as well against top-ranked competition.

But his value to the sixth-ranked and Orange Bowl-bound Nittany Lions is beyond question.

Cappelletti took the steam out of the cocky Bobcats, who expected to kick off, by gaining 49 yards and scoring a touchdown in the opening drive. Eight minutes later he plunged one yard for his second score. In the second quarter he raced 25 and 15 yards for scores and the rout was on.

Lifted for part of the second period, he had 179 yards at the half. With Penn State ahead 28-7, he rambled for 19 yards in the third quarter, left the game and came back for one play to scamper six yards and lift his total to 204 yards.

"Paterno called me over and asked me if I wanted to go back in for the extra yards," Cappelletti said. "I thought that was very nice of him."

Bill Hess, the Ohio coach, didn't. Asked if he would have done anything differently in retrospect, Hess said: "Yeah, I wouldn't schedule them."

Hess explained that his team was simply outmatched and outsize. "We expected our defense to hold and we'd have good field position," he said of the decision to kick off after winning the coin toss.

"We certainly didn't expect them to move the ball right down the field on us like they did."

"Penn State is a great football team," Hess said. "They certainly deserve their high national ranking."

The Lions outgained the Bobcats 515 yards to 236.

Dr. William Fields, president of the Orange Bowl committee, extended a formal bid following the game and the Lions agreed to make an appearance in their sixth bowl game in seven seasons.

They'll meet Louisiana State University on New Year's night. It will be the first meeting between the two schools.

Big Year For Regan

YONKERS

Buddy Regan, the leading trainer at Yonkers Raceway, expects Christmas a little early this year.

Sometime next month, Regan should collect his one millionth purse dollar of 1973. His owners, obviously, have been celebrating all season long.

"I have to admit that this is something I'm looking forward to eagerly," says Regan, at 37 firmly established as one of harness racing's finest trainers. "This didn't seem possible just a few years ago."

It's one thing for Herve Filion, Buddy Gilmour, Del Insko or Lucien Fontaine to win $1 million over 12 months. They sit in the sulky sometimes eight or nine races a night, often behind 50 different horses a week. Regan, however, as a non-driving trainer, depends on 25-30 horses a year to earn his keep. He conditions his stock for a prime effort each time out before turning them over to a half-dozen or so appreciative drivers.

"Oh, I still drive occasionally out-of-town," Regan tells. "In fact, I've won a couple of races in under two minutes. I enjoy getting in the bike. But it's just too big a business in New York. People are betting a lot of money here. They deserve the best drivers."

In 1972, Buddy's stable brought in $600,000. This year's figures — $900,000 at the end of October, $120,000 last month alone — an $80,000 monthly average — can be attributed to a better class of stock, a stakes winning colt and a continued, remarkable knack at claiming horses.

"Contemplate. Real Speed, Tarport Skipper and Leo Dares race for large purses and have always been good earners," he says. "And this New York Sires Stakes colt, George Van Allen, won $84,000 this year. When he's right, he's probably the best of the three-year-olds."

Still, Buddy can't get all that excited about racing colts and fillies and Grand Circuit stock. Not that he'd turn a good one down. He simply prefers claiming an aged horse to buying a yearling and would rather race in New York than travel all over the country.

"Claiming is the heart of my business. At least I have some idea of what I'm getting with a claim. And the challenge, naturally, is to improve on the horse's past performance. When I make a claim, I'll change the horse's equipment no matter how long he's been wearing the same gear. I made eight changes on one horse after I got him and he won four straight after losing his first 15 starts."

Regan's success late this year has silenced many of the critics who contend that he races his horses too hard all season long.

Service Battery Wins

KINGSTON Rocky Johnson saved four of his 32 points for the overtime in the A Division of the YMCA basketball league, and that helped power his Service Battery team to a 65-62 victory over Sportsmen's Grill.

In other A battles, Canfield's edged Lowe's Pool, 76-71, and the Handle Bar overpowered Kingston Hospital, 119-61. In the B Division, Watzka's scored a 64-56 win over West Pier Point, and Wenzel's Amusement topped Stewart's Ice Cream, 50-41.

Sportsmen's faltered after an early lead and scored only six points in the extra period while giving up nine. John Meehan had 15 to pace the losers while Jim Alba added 15 to the Battery cause.

Canfield's got 32 points from Greg Kohls and 14 from Coleman Link to sink Lowe's. Ron Burris bombed 37 in defeat. Meanwhile, seven players hit double figures in the Handle Bar romp. Tom Fiore had 26 to lead the parade.

Les Clouthier of Watzka's and Ron Ciclo of West Pier Pt. each had 19 points. Mike Kiernan poured in 30 for Stewart's, while Jim Yarter had 13 for Wenzel's.

The results:
Service Battery (65) — Johnson 32, Alba 15, Toney 9, Basch 5, McGowan 4.
Sportsmen's Grill (62) — Meehan 15, M. Bush 14, J. Bush 13, Gale 6, Jomity 6, Pinkham 4, Gahan 4.

Bailey Went Unbeaten

KINGSTON "the most talented group of J. Watson Bailey Junior boys I have ever coached." High's football team compiled Fullback Joel Etter led the undefeated season this year scoring with 44 points, but right under coach Charlie Castle, behind was quarterback Brice With six victories and a scoring Schnakenberg who had 42, advantage of 148-32 over op-Tailback Tom Brown had 28 ponents, Castle called his team, points, Alan Schmid scored 22 points, and Bob Whiffen and Mike Minor each had six points. Castle gave much of the credit to Bailey's offensive linemen, Harris Weinberger, Paul Manz, Clark Waters, Mike Hayman and John Falatyn.

Defensively, Bailey turned in four shutouts and surrendered less than a touchdown per game. Leading this unit were Matt Supplies, John Browning, Conrad Abney, Bryan Armstrong and Craig Neal.

The Bailey gridders have compiled a two-year record of 11 wins and one loss.

The association's board of directors, in voting the penalty Sunday, also dictated a one-year suspension for anyone failing to report race tampering to judges.

"We know the vast majority of our 38,000 owners, trainers and drivers are honest and above reproach and we are not going to permit their names to be blackened by innuendo or possible wrongdoing on the part of a few bad actors," said USTA President Theodore J. Zornow. "We're serving notice with this action that any such wrongdoing will result in automatic suspension from the sport."

In other action at the five-day annual meeting here, the board:

—Created a separate district for its 2,000 members in New Jersey.

—Allocated grants totaling $95,000 for equine research to veterinary schools at Ohio State, Pennsylvania and Cornell.

—Left the controversial single shaft sulky tryout to local harness racing jurisdictions until completion of further testing.

—Re-elected all officers.

Journal Says Skiing Hurt

PARIS (UPI) — The decision by the World Ski Cup committee to schedule mens' and womens' contests at the same time is endangering the skiing sport, the newspaper Journal du Dimanche said Sunday.

The newspaper said the decision will mean that the written press, television and radio will be virtually forced to cover mens' events fully and neglect the women's contests.

"Have the members of the World Cup commission become enemies of women?" the newspaper asked. It criticized French President of the Alpine Committee Honore Bonnet for approving the innovations and stating that they will produce "spectacular contests."

"One feels like listening to a promoter of professional races. A sport cannot survive but through the respect of its traditions and the protection of contests which have assured its solid foundations. Skiing is headed towards its death if it falls into the hands of these 'reformists' who resemble too much show business promoters," the paper said.

Rosie's Leads In Volleyball

SAUGERTIES

Rosie's Raiders maintained their one-game lead in the SAA Girls' Volleyball League with a series sweep of Shake, Rattle and Roll. The Raiders now have 12 wins without a loss, picking up decisions by scores of 15-6, 15-4 and 15-3.

Sunshine stayed in second place, sweeping the winless Cuties, 15-0, 15-5, 15-2 and 15-2. Moonbeams moved into a third place tie with the Greenbacks by taking a sweep via forfeit won 15-4, 15-4 and 15-2 from the Sommers, but lost a 15-5 game.

The Rejects split a set with the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang for their first wins of the year. The Rejects jumped to 2-10 with 15-12 and 16-14 victories, while the Gang went to 8-4 on scores of 15-7 and 15-8.

Hawks Take SAA Contest

SAUGERTIES The Hawks downed the Raiders, 49-28 to win the match of undefeated teams in the Monday Division of the SAA Junior Basketball League. Rick Woodward led the winners with 16 points as the Hawks upped their record to 4-0.

In other games, the Rockets beat the Knicks, 40-25 behind 25 points by Jim Hitchcock, and the Pistons topped the Warriors, 30-25.

In the Tuesday Division, the Lakers took a two-game lead with a 54-49 triumph over the Royals. Mike Miller led the victory with 24 points. In other games, the Bullets beat the Bucks, 33-18, and the Nets whipped the Celts, 44-31.

Bill Schabot Fires 674

KINGSTON

Bill Schabot, who qualifies as one of the pops in the Father and Son League, set a good example for the offspring with a 243-674 slam to take over the No. 2 position on the area Top Ten triples list. And he wasn't the only hot shooter going.

Bill Vertitis, firing the third best threesome of the night, a 605, hit a 279 single for a new league high and the No. 2 spot on the area singles list. In between those two, Dan McGrane sandwiched a highly respectable 269-645 performance. That's the fifth best single rolled to date.

Don Genter also found the range, racking 247-571, and the lessons weren't lost on the kids. Dave Porsl led the youngsters with a 238-566. Dave Ferraro also banged 566, and Paul Seism decked 563.

Final Senate Vote Due on Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate smarting from charges of inaction is nearing expected passage of emergency legislation that would give President Nixon most of the powers he says he needs to meet the energy crisis.

But the bill, which was scheduled for a final vote late this afternoon, could not become law until some time next week at the earliest, since it also must pass the House which does not return from Thanksgiving recess until Nov. 26.

In his Saturday news conference, President Nixon said Congress had not acted on energy proposals he had made as long as two years ago. Nixon said Congress had sent him only one of his seven pieces of priority energy legislation, the Alaska pipeline bill.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., reacted to the President's statement by saying flatly, "He is wrong."

Appearing Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," Mansfield accused the President of being long on rhetoric and proposals but short on specific legislative programs.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation," said Nixon's statement was "very hard to understand." Proxmire said "the President simply hasn't grasped" the severity of the situation, which according to a Library of Congress study could result in fuel shortages of up to 35 per cent.

David Rockefeller, head of the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, predicted that the crisis could lead to a zero growth rate for the nation next year and a 6 per cent drop in industrial production. Rockefeller, interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said the economists' best estimates is that the fuel shortages will result in a cut of $3 million a day in the economy's growth.

Mansfield and Proxmire also differed with the President on the need for gasoline rationing. Nixon said in his televised press conference he hoped to avoid rationing.

According to Mansfield, Nixon's reluctance to impose rationing is "just paving the way to a recession next year." Proxmire said, "I think gasoline rationing is essential. We have to have it no matter what happens, no matter how much relief we might even get from the end of the Arab boycott." The measure before the Senate today would give the President the authority, but not require him, to order rationing of gasoline or any other scarce fuel.

The bill by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., also would authorize such energy-saving steps as lowered thermostats, reduced speed limits and shorter school days. Another energy-conservation measure, which the President had not asked for, would cut the size of the federal government's limousine fleet.

A provision authored by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, would permit the burning of high-sulphur oil and coal by allowing violations of clean air standards.

The bill also seeks to make maximum use of available fuel supplies by giving the President power to order oil and gas burning power plants to convert to coal.

Arab Nations Relaxing Stand on Oil Cutbacks

VIENNA (UPI) — The worldwide energy crunch eased slightly today with Arab nations partially relaxing oil cutbacks to Western Europe and China offering to sell Middle East petroleum to America's Asian friends.

The Arab oil nations agreed Sunday at a meeting in Vienna to call off a new five per cent cut in Common Market petroleum shipments scheduled to go into effect next month.

In other developments, Romania became the first Communist nation to order tough fuel rationing measures to cope with expected energy shortages.

The United States has nearly 40,000 servicemen spread over six bases in Thailand. The American forces have depended on Singapore for much of their oil supplies, but Singapore recently cut off fuel shipments to U.S. troops following Arab pressures.

The 10 Arab states ordered the lifting of December's scheduled five per cent cut to all but one of the Common Market countries "in appreciation of the political stand" of group, which recently called for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands.

The Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries said, however, a 25 per cent cut ordered last month would remain in effect and scheduled five per cent monthly reductions would resume in January.

The Arab nations also reaffirmed total embargos on oil shipments to the United States and Holland, and warned worldwide fuel belt-tightening would still be necessary.

In Belgium, bicycles and horses took over the streets and merchants complained the Sunday ban on driving hurt the day's traditional market business.

Israel Will Probe Military 'Errors'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel says it will begin a judicial probe into charges of military mishandling during the first stage of the October war when Egyptian tanks and men stormed across the Suez Canal and captured the eastern bank.

The government announced Sunday that the investigation will be conducted by a five-member commission and the findings will later be made public unless they are ruled militarily sensitive.

At the same time, the Egyptian war minister, Lt. Gen. Ahmed Ismail, said that Egyptian military errors and misjudgments helped the Israelis establish a foothold on the Egyptian side of the canal during the final days of the war.

But he said the October war succeeded in breaking the Middle East stalemate and changed the image of Egypt and the Arabs as a whole. He said that Egypt militarily was in much better position on Oct. 22 — the date of the first U.N. cease-fire — than it was on Oct. 6 when the war began.

Egypt has charged that Israel violated the cease-fire on Oct. 22 and expanded its foothold on the western bank of the canal prior to a second cease-fire on Oct. 24. Military experts say that movement resulted in the isolation of the Egyptian 3rd Army on the eastern bank of the Suez Canal and of Suez city on the southern tip of the canal.

The announcement of the Israeli investigation came amid continued furor over initial setbacks the Israeli army suffered when war broke out with Egypt along the Suez Canal and with Syria in the Golan Heights on Oct. 6. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has said that Israel had no inkling of war until the morning the shooting began.

A cabinet statement said that the investigation will cover "the army's deployment for war in general, its preparedness in the days prior to the war and its actions until it held back the enemy."

Government sources said the inquiry most likely will seek to find out why Israeli intelligence did not foresee that war was imminent and whether Israel was quick enough after the initial outbreak in mobilizing its citizen army.

During the first hours of the war Egyptian tanks rumbled across bridges over the Suez Canal and captured a strip of land along the eastern bank, including Israel's highly touted Bar-Lev Line. In the Golan Heights, Syrian tanks initially overran numerous Israeli positions.

In other developments: —The POW exchanges between Egypt and Israel were continuing. So far, 142 of 247 Israeli prisoners held in Egypt and nearly half of the 8,221 Egyptians held by Israel have been freed.

—In Vienna, the 10 Arab oil producing nations said they would not reduce their oil supplies to Europe during the month of December as previously announced because the Common Market recently called upon Israel to withdraw from Arab territory it has occupied since 1967.

The announcement excluded The Netherlands and the United States to which the Arab nations are refusing to ship oil altogether because of their support of Israel. The Arabs said production cuts of 5 per cent month will resume to Europe in January.

Flood of Messages Pour In

Young Teddy Out of Bed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Within the space of an hour, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy stood in the hospital room where his 12-year-old son was recovering from the amputation of a cancerous leg and at the altar where his niece was married.

Edward Moore Kennedy Jr. was reported in satisfactory condition early today. A spokesman at Georgetown University Hospital said he was able to get out of bed briefly and began to read the messages offering support and prayer that had poured in.

Eleanor Nealon, a hospital spokeswoman, said several thousand telephone calls had been received at the hospital switchboard, "the most I can remember."

Young Teddy, an athletic, blond seventh-grader at the private St. Alban's School for Boys in Washington, first complained of a pain in his lower right leg about 10 days ago. It was diagnosed as a cartilage tissue tumor, less serious than primary bone cancer. An official of the National Cancer Institute said the 10-year survival rate for Teddy's form of bone cancer is 69 per cent.

He was told on Friday the leg would have to be amputated above the knee.

At 8:30 a.m. EST Saturday, he was wheeled before Dr. George Hyatt, chief of orthopedic surgery at the hospital, and the operation lasted until about 10 a.m. The operation was successful.

Kennedy and his wife Joan had been up all night consoling their son and were in the recovery room when Teddy was brought in, but shortly afterwards, the Massachusetts Democrat, last surviving male child of Joseph Kennedy Jr., left to keep a long-standing promise to give away his brother's daughter Kathleen in marriage.

The senator looked pained but smiled reassuringly as he led Kathleen up the steps of Holy Trinity Church to marry David Lee Townsend, 25, a bearded Harvard Law School student. After they exchanged vows in a Roman Catholic ceremony, singer Andy Williams led the guests in a rousing chorus of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

The morning of heavy emotion came three days before Kathleen's father, Robert F. Kennedy, who was assassinated in Los Angeles in June 1968, would have been 48. It was five days before the 10th anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas.

Protestants Start Ulster Yule Truce

BELFAST (UPI) — The Ulster Volunteer Force (UVF), a Protestant extremist organization, began a six-week Christmas truce today following a weekend of bomb attacks against Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland.

The outlawed militant group, which security forces claim specializes in bombings, said the 43-day truce would last until the end of the year.

Capt. William Johnston, the UVF spokesman, announced the cease-fire in a letter published in Belfast newspapers Sunday in the midst of a weekend terror campaign against Catholics.

"The leaders of the Ulster Volunteer Force guarantee that the cease-fire will be 100 per cent effective," the statement said. "Personnel who contravene the cease-fire orders will face severe physical punishment or execution."

In violence Sunday against Catholics, police reported three persons injured in Desertmartin, 40 miles northwest of Belfast, when terrorists bombed a County Tyrone farm.

Authorities said extremists hurled a bomb from a passing car at a store in Belfast's Agincourt Avenue causing severe damage but no injuries. Police reported no casualties when another bomb wrecked the Rose and Crown bar in Belfast.

In other violence, a bomb hidden in a car exploded Sunday along Antrim Road injuring three soldiers, none seriously, security forces said.

Troops in Tanks On Athens Patrol

ATHENS (UPI) — Troops in tanks patrolled the streets of Athens today imposing order on the Greek capital for the first time since students took to the streets in an attempt to topple military backed President George Papadopolous.

The Greek government vowed Sunday to use "all the means" of martial law to crush the six-day-old student rebellion which broke out into full-scale street fighting last Friday night.

Chief Coroner Dimitrios Kapsaklis said Sunday nine persons died during the weekend clashes. He said about 110 civilians and 38 policemen were injured.

A government spokesman said today police arrested 866 demonstrators at the height of the student-led anti-government demonstration Friday night, but he would not say how many were arrested Saturday and Sunday.

More than half those arrested — 473 — were workers who joined the students in demanding the overthrow of the military-backed regime, he said.

The students began the confrontation six days ago when they occupied the Athens Polytechnic school. They held it peacefully for two days before the army stormed the building last Friday when some of the students took to the streets.

A curfew in the capital Sunday night and early today brought the first calm to Athens since demonstrating students took to the streets Friday. As night fell, the sporadic shooting that sent tourists and Athenians flying under cafe tables all day Sunday came to a halt.

Athens was choked with normal Monday morning traffic as workers and shopowners returned to business, but at mid-morning downtown streets were closed to private traffic and army tanks and troops guarded the university area and government buildings.
